

RUSS PUSH AUSTRIANS IN BIG MOVE

BUKOWINA CAPITAL IS ENCIRCLED BY THE CAZAR'S MEN.

LULL ON VERDUN LINE

ITALIANS REPULSE AN ATTACK IN SOUTH
TYROL.

There is a momentary lull in the desperate fighting which has been going on for several days north-east of Verdun. Preparations for further assaults on the French defenses are in progress, however, Paris today reporting a violent bombardment in the Vaux sector. The anticipated effort of the Germans to make a further advance there is expected to be facilitated by the headway made recently in ousting the French from their commanding position on Hill 321 to the west, from which they have been able to enfilade the Vaux plateau.

In the southern Tyrol the Austrians are now encountering a resistance which they are unable to break down, according to the Rome war office, which today reports the failure of a series of assaults on Italian positions along the Posina line. Elsewhere there were no Austrian attacks, but the whole Italian front has been subjected to a severe bombardment.

Cernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, is apparently on the eve of falling into Russian hands in the course of General Brusilov's widespread offensive movement. His troops are represented to have cut the railway running north from the city, severing the Austrian communications and his cavalry to have reached a point 20 miles beyond. One woman was killed and four civilians injured in Monday night's raid by Austrian sea planes on Venice. Rome declares that the property damage was slight.

RUSSIANS STILL ADVANCE.

Italians Repulse Attacks on the Austrian Front.

PETROGRAD, June 14. (via London)—In their advance upon Cernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, the Russians have occupied the village of Sniatyn, 20 miles north-west of the city, the war office announced today.

In addition to their previous captures the Russians have taken 20 officers, 4,000 men, 6 guns and 10 machine guns.

ROME, June 14. (via London)—Austrian attacks along the line of Posina in the southern Tyrol, made after intensive artillery preparation on Monday night were everywhere repulsed by the Italians, the war office announced today.

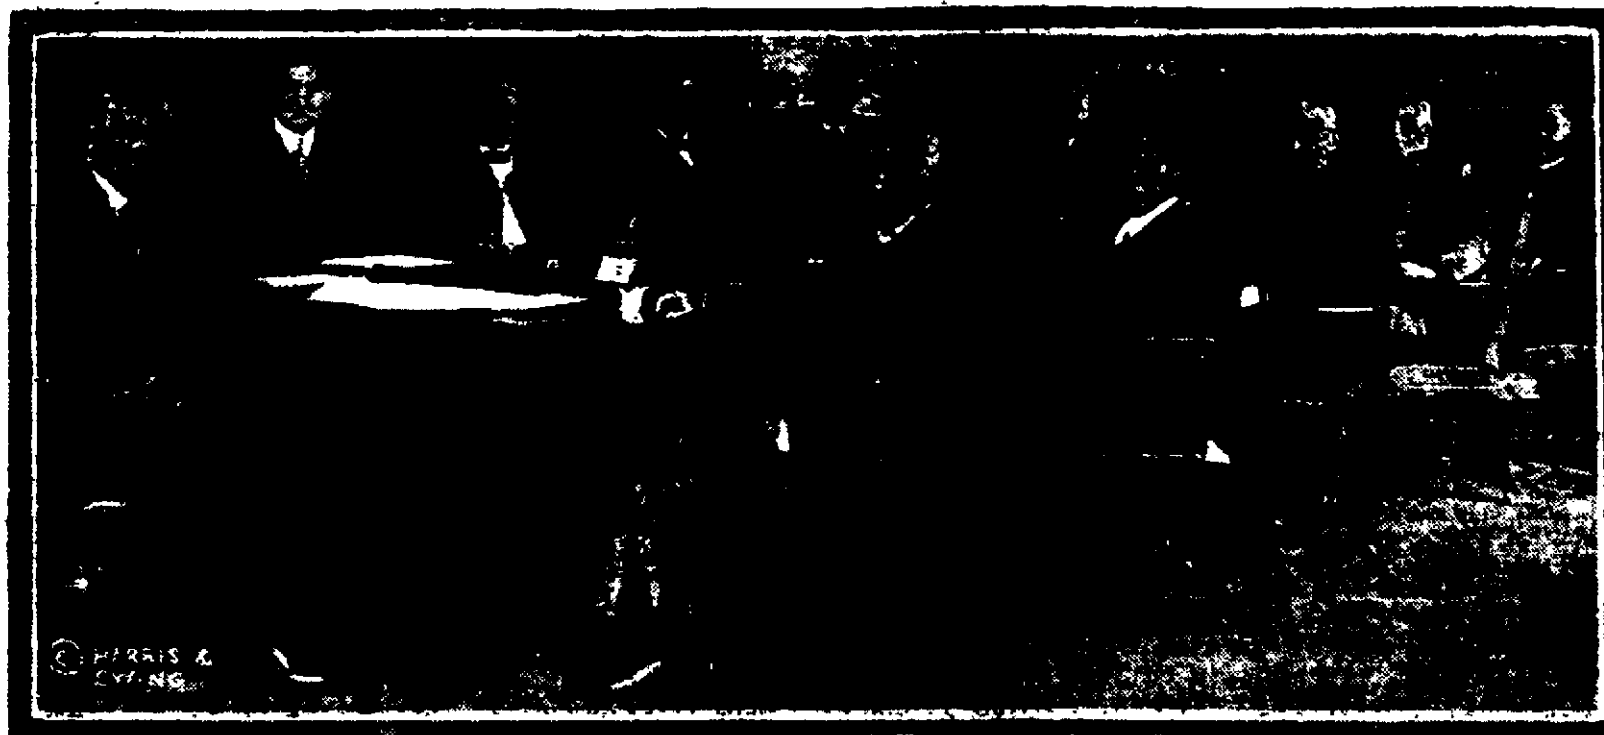

BERLIN, June 14.—(By wireless to Sayville)—The following statement from the Austrian admiralty was received here today from Vienna.

"An Austrian submarine on June 8 torpedoed the large Italian auxiliary cruiser Principe Umberto, which had troops on board. The vessel which was accompanied by several destroyers sank in a few minutes. The loss of the Principe Umberto was announced by the Italian admiralty on June 9. It was said probably half the troops on board the vessel perished.

LONDON, June 14.—Reports from the eastern front indicate that the Russians are making substantial progress in their efforts to capture Cernowitz the capital of Bukovina. A Reuter despatch from Petrograd says the Russians have interrupted the Austrian communications by cutting the railway running north from Cernowitz. Heavy fighting is in progress in the eastern and southeastern and northern outskirts of the city.

BERLIN, June 14. (via London)—The Russian offensive which has been directed against the southern portion of the eastern front, broke out yesterday against Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's forces, at a point about 75 miles north of the Pinsk. The Russians made several successive attacks with masses of infantry. The war office announcement of today says they were repulsed with heavy losses.

First Complete Photo of Cabinet St. Louis Convention Will Endorse

From Left to Right—President Wilson, Secretary of Treasury William G. McAdoo; Attorney General T. W. Gregory, Secretary of Navy Joseph Daniels, Secretary of Agriculture Houston, Secretary of State Robert Lansing, Secretary of Labor Wilson, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, Postmaster General Burleson, Secretary of Interior Franklin D. Lane, and Secretary of Commerce Redfield.

This is the first photograph of the reconstructed cabinet of President Wilson, constituting the democratic administration, which the national democratic convention at St. Louis will endorse in its platform and by the renomination by acclamation of the president. Since the last complete photograph of the cabinet, Robert Lansing has taken Mr. Bryan's place as secretary of state; Newton D. Baker has taken Mr. Garrison's place as secretary of war and Thomas W. Gregory has taken Mr. McReynolds' place as attorney general.

OHIOANS ARE NOMINATED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—The president has sent to the senate the nomination of P. C. Fullerton to be postmaster at Lodi, Ohio, and H. E. Zimmerman to be postmaster at Loudersville, Ohio. The postoffice appointments of Theodore W. Englehart, at Brazil, Ind., and John T. Mollers, at Kramar, Ind., also were sent to the senate.

GIVES TAX RULING.

COLUMBUS, O., June 14.—In an opinion addressed to the state tax commission, attorney-general Turner today ruled the commission cannot increase or decrease property valuations after one year has elapsed following the making of the valuation and cannot extend the June term of county review boards beyond the first Monday in August.

WHITTLED DOWN SOMEWHAT.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Citizens' encampments, including that at Plattsburg, will get $500,000 in the new $157,000,000 army appropriation bill, according to present plans. The house military committee finally will pass on the bill tomorrow, probably putting this amount in the bill instead of the $4,000,000 asked for by those active in the encampments and the $1,000,000 asked for by the war department.

Patriotic Firemen On Flag Day Endorse All Kinds of Preparedness

The second day's session of the Ohio Firemen's association was opened this morning in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce, with an address on "Incendiarism," by Bert B. Buckley, state fire marshal. At the same time the first meeting of the Ohio Firemen's Protective association was held at the Memorial hall. Their work was confined to appointing committees and routine business.

In a paper read to the members of the Ohio Firemen's association Mr. Buckley stated that cases of incendiarism were more important to the fire chief than to the state fire marshal, as the former was not only obliged to risk his life while fighting the fire, but upon the thoroughness of his report depends the investigation made by the state department.

The following facts and conditions were dealt with in dealing with incendiary cases, according to Mr. Buckley: World's wealth is destroyed; thieves and highwaymen transfer wealth to a new owner; destruction of physical evidence makes it hard to detect the crime; no confederate to betray, it is easy to for man alibi, and he needs no go-between to get cash.

Captain J. J. Conway of Cincinnati, superintendent of the Underwriters' Salvage corps, was the next to address the gathering. He dealt with the elimination of over-insurance suspicious with arson and incendiarism.

"One of the biggest difficulties that our company has had to contend with is the elimination of over-insurance," he said, "and according to my personal observation last year more than $200,000 worth of losses settled by our company upon investigation proved to be over insured to many times actual value."

"I am of the opinion that the only manner in which the fire hazards of the country can be reduced is by personal campaign in each city. Not only should the older people be appealed to, but the children through their teachers should be given instructions in regard to elimination of fires."

In a short talk, Mr. A. C. Speed of the Underwriters' Insurance Co. of America, stated that much good could be accomplished toward accepting risks by co-operation between the state fire marshal, fire chiefs and insurance companies. Persons taking out insurance should be classified according to the frequency they have been connected with fires. He also claimed that one trouble with insurance companies was that they were careless in writing out policies. This results in many cases of the insured having any number of policies, and is therefore an incentive toward arson.

The laws of the United States which makes a man innocent until proved guilty by the state, was named as the cause of difficulty in convicting persons suspected of arson by George W. Cleveland of Cincinnati. He is the manager of the Cincinnati Fire Prevention bureau.

"In England the fire losses are one-fifth what they are in this country," he said, "and this due entirely to the fact that persons being tried on a charge of arson are guilty until proved innocent. In this country suspects being tried on such a charge are innocent until proved guilty."

The committee on resolutions submitted the following report which was adopted and placed in the minutes:

"Whereas, The Ohio Firemen's association is mindful of the complications and perils from without threatening the well-being, peace and safety of the nation, recognizes the significance of this day, the 188th anniversary of the adoption of the United States flag, and believes that such an occasion as this should be utilized as an inspiration to patriotic endeavor and re-dedication of ourselves to the service of our common country, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the Ohio Firemen's association, in convention assembled, urges the law makers of

G. O. P. PLATFORM IS SILENT ON OLD VETS

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The platform of the republican party adopted in Chicago last week omitted, for the first time in 90 years, all mention of the veterans of the Civil war.

General I. R. Sherwood, of Toledo, O., chairman of the house invalid pensions committee, discovered this hiatus. He promptly communicated this information to a number of republicans, who were distinctly flurried and who have not yet recovered. It is presumed that this subject was forgotten because other matters of more pressing importance were demanding the attention of the platform makers.

"The soul moved," is the direction of its attention," said General Sherwood today. "I presume that explains why the republican platform makers forgot to put anything in about the old soldiers."

WILSON WALKS FOR PREPAREDNESS IN CAPITAL PARADE

Regular Military Bodies
Excluded From Procession of 75,000.

The President Delivers an Address on "America
First" Later.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Led by President Wilson carrying the stars and stripes, nearly 75,000 men, women and children of Washington marched up broad Pennsylvania avenue today in a preparedness parade arranged to emphasize the national capital's demand for an adequate army and navy.

Besides marching himself and then reviewing the parade, the president had prepared an address on "America First" to be delivered in the afternoon at an open air meeting south of the White House.

Washington was brilliantly decorated for the occasion. It was a holiday, for under an executive order issued by the president all government employees were excused from work and many stores were closed. The celebration was planned in part as a response to a proclamation issued by the president calling upon the people of the nation to celebrate Flag day this year with special ceremonies.

Beginning at the Peace monument, near the Capitol buildings, the line of march passed the post office and treasury department buildings and then reached the White House, where a reviewing stand, draped with American flags had been erected. There the program provided that the president should lead the head of the parade and enter the stand with the members of the executive committee. Arrangements had been made to have Mrs. Wilson and members of the cabinet join him to watch the remainder of the line pass by.

No regular military organizations were permitted to march, because Secretaries Baker and Daniels thought it would be improper for professional soldiers or sailors to participate. The National Guard of the District of Columbia, and several other volunteer military bodies were assigned to prominent places in the line.

ROOSEVELT SUFFERS HEART AFFLICTION

NEW YORK, June 14.—Kermit and Mrs. Roosevelt, son and daughter-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt, arrived here with their baby from Buenos Ayres today on the United States army transport Kilpatrick. They were met at the pier by Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Persons at the dock observed that the former president walked with his left hand at times pressed under his heart. Questioned by his wife, he told her he had a pain, but believed it would pass away presently. This proved to be the case by the time the vessel berthed.

Later it was explained that Col. Roosevelt was suffering with a very bad cold contracted several months ago.

After leaving the pier he kept an appointment with a throat specialist. He has been visiting the physician on the occasions of his coming here from Oyster Bay.

AMERICANISM FEATURE OF GLYNN'S KEYNOTE IN DEMOCRAT CONVENTION

"Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity" Dominant Notes of Address.

HARMONY MARKS SESSION

Indications Now Point to Unopposed Renomination of Vice President Marshall.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The national committee has adopted a design for a campaign button suggested by National Committeeman McLean of North Carolina. It bears a picture of President Wilson with the motto, "America First" in bold red letters.

United States Senator Atlee Pomerene was selected today as Ohio's member of the resolutions committee of the democratic national convention.

COLISEUM, ST. LOUIS, June 14.—The convention adjourned at 2:40 until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

COLISEUM, ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—With the keynote of "Americanism and Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity," the democratic national convention began its first session today shortly after noon with not a single element in sight to disturb the harmonious renomination of President Wilson and Vice President Marshall.

When National Chairman McCombs called the convention to order 12,000 delegates, alternates and spectators packed the big Coliseum to the roof. Members of the national committee, members of President Wilson's cabinet and party leaders from all over the country had places on the platform. Plaster medallions of Washington, Jackson, Jefferson and Cleveland looked down upon the delegates from the decorations which consisted uniformly of nothing but the American flag. The only picture of President Wilson in the hall hung in front of the speaker's desk inscribed "America First."

Vice presidential booms willed by President Wilson's direct word that he desired the renomination of Vice President Marshall were brought to the convention hall but only as favorite son compliments. When National Chairman McCombs had called the convention to order, the next business was the reading of the call by Secretary J. Bruce Krempur.

Former Governor Glynn of New York, was next with the keynote speech. Down under the speaker's stand direct telephones and telegraph wires to the White House carried momentary reports of the proceedings in the hall. All prospects of a fight in the convention had gone glimmering overnight with William J. Bryan's announcement that he did not propose to press certain planks before the resolution committee and that he would make campaign speeches for the democratic nomination.

"We have entered this hall as democrats," let us deliberate as Americans," declared Mr. Glynn in sounding the keynote.

"It is the business of this convention, representing every section of the United States, speaking for every racial strain in America, to send forth a message to all the world that will leave no room for doubt."

Reviewing President Wilson's conduct of foreign affairs, he declared the president had stood with Washington, Adams and Grant who had preserved peace with honor.

"For vainglory or for selfish purposes," he declared, "others may cry for a policy of blood and iron but the president has acted on the belief that the leader of a nation who plunged his people into an unnecessary war, like Pontius Pilate, vainly washes his hands of innocent blood."

There probably was not one democrat who went into the building who could recall when a national convention of that party entered upon its work with more harmony than that which prevailed among the more than 1,000 delegates today. The candidates for president and vice president have been decided upon, and, according to leaders, there will be no friction on the party's declaration of principles. Only the phraseology of a few planks in the platform remains to be agreed upon.

Despite the expected cut and dried proceedings which the party managers hope to enliven by calling upon old campaigners to deliver ringing speeches to the delegates at odd moments during the sessions, the sergeant-at-arms of the convention was prepared with a small army of assistants to handle large crowds at all of the meetings. Every seat in the oval-shaped hall has been allotted and arrangements were made to take care of hundreds in spaces back

PROGRAM AT ST. LOUIS.

TODAY.

Noon—Convention called to order by Chairman McCombs of the National Committee.

Reading of call for convention.

Prayer.

Roll call of states and announcement of temporary officers of the convention.

Address by temporary chairman.

Adoption of rules and the roll call of states on committee selections.

TOMORROW.

Noon—Report of credentials committee and other committees. Speeches on campaign issues and party achievements.

of flags. The New Jersey delegation, bearing its stanchion, began the first procession down the front aisle.

Stanchions of Illinois, Maryland, Indiana and other states soon followed.

The crowd got entirely out of hand but police prevented a general procession by ordering the delegates to their sections.

WILSON AND VICTORY.

Spirit of Triumph Pervades Democratic Gathering at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—Wilson and Marshall and victory in November, was the program of the delegates who crowded into the big Coliseum here today for the opening session of the democratic national convention.

There probably was not one democrat who went into the building who could recall when a national convention of that party entered upon its work with more harmony than that which prevailed among the more than 1,000 delegates today. The candidates for president and vice president have been decided upon, and, according to leaders, there will be no friction on the party's declaration of principles. Only the phraseology of a few planks in the platform remains to be agreed upon.

Despite the expected cut and dried proceedings which the party managers hope to enliven by calling upon old campaigners to deliver ringing speeches to the delegates at odd moments during the sessions, the sergeant-at-arms of the convention was prepared with a small army of assistants to handle large crowds at all of the meetings. Every seat in the oval-shaped hall has been allotted and arrangements were made to take care of hundreds in spaces back of the seats and in the aisle. The interior of the Coliseum was handsomely decorated, the American colors, of course, predominating.

The city itself was dressed for the occasion, the fact that this was Flag day, the anniversary of the birth of the American flag, helped in the display of the colors.

President Wilson has indicated his preference for his running mate of four years ago and there is not the slightest doubt that his wish will be gratified. If the leaders who are managing the convention can bring it about, Vice President Marshall will be re-nominated by acclamation.

The plans for the opening day's session provided for the convention to be called to order at 10 o'clock by William F. McCombs, of New York, the retiring chairman of the national committee. The call for the convention is to be read by J. Bruce Kromer, the secretary of the national committee. Then the program called for the opening prayer by the Rev. James W. Lee, presiding elder of the St. Louis district Methodist Episcopal church, South. The reading of the list of temporary officers already agreed upon by the national committee was next in order. Then comes the keynote speech by the temporary chairman, Martin H. Glynn of New York.

Mr. Glynn's speech is expected to take up more than an hour of the convention's time. After he concludes, the roll of states is to be called for representation on the committee on resolutions, permanent organization, rules and order of business, platform and committees to notify the candidates named.

Adjournment will be taken until Thursday, when the committee will report. Permanent organization will be effected and after the permanent chairman, Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, delivers his speech, the convention may listen to some of the party's orators, after which adjournment will be taken until Friday morning, when the platform will be read and adopted. Then will come a recess, and the presidential candidate will be named late Friday night.

It is probable that a public hearing will be given, probably Thursday, to suffragists, labor leaders and others who have planks they desire inserted in the democratic declaration of principles. Anti-suffragists will also be given a hearing, it is said.

Secretary of War Baker, who arrived here last night from Washington with the planks drafted personally by President Wilson, will submit them to the resolutions committee when it is appointed. Mr. Baker has taken extra precautions to prevent the text of the planks in his custody from reaching the public before submission to the committee. So cautious was he that on his way west he took the papers from under the pillows in his berth while he slept.

Expressions of approval were heard today regarding the suggested plan to win over members of the progressive party by making overtures to them in the democratic platform.

Labor Men Busy.

Denunciation of the use of the militia and armed guards against organized workers is contained in a proposed industrial plank submitted by Frank P. Walsh, former chairman of the federal industrial relations committee, to Senator Stone, who will be chairman of the resolutions committee. The proposed plank also declares the right of labor unions to organize.

"We demand the fullest encouragement," it reads, "both in administrative law and in the judicial process of union labor. To make this declaration effective we point out that today and in the past the power of courts and other legal processes has been used against the rights of the workers to associate themselves in labor unions. We condemn these practices as being in violation of the spirit, at least, of the federal law securing to the workers the legal right of voluntary association."

"We denounce the practice, which prevails in no other civilized country, of permitting private interests both to employ the state and national soldiery and to employ armed guards and detectives to crush out unions, which are organized to promote the industrial interests of the wage workers."

"We denounce particularly in this connection the importation from one state to another of such armed guards and of machine guns, armored cars, motor cars and the like. And we pledge the enactment of all possible legislation to prevent such private usurpation of power."

MUNICIPAL BAND BOOSTS FREE MUSIC

According to present indications it is likely that the band concerts in the public parks will be revived within a short time, as the head of the Lima Municipal Band this morning received four letters this morning from local industrial concerns containing a money to complete funds for the summer's entertainments in parks can be increased to the required amount, it will be a sure thing.

Merchants of the city will be asked to assist in promoting the project and there is little chance of the plan failing according to those behind the move. The band, which is under the directorship of Joseph D. Pare, has gained an enviable reputation in this section of the state. They will give concerts on the Public Square tonight and tomorrow night.

TEACHERS ATTEND VACATION COURSE

Many Enroll in Summer Schools For Normal or Special Study.

More than 60 teachers connected with the state of instruction of the Lima public schools will attend summer normal sessions during the vacation season as students of advanced courses of pedagogy. Most of them will devote most of their time to research in the science of instruction, but a few will study other subjects in which they are especially interested.

Those who will take the summer courses, with the institutions which they expect to attend, are as follows:

Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York City—E. F. Schweickart, Miss Zella Foster, Miss Mary Jones, Mrs. Gwen Jones Pence, Dwight L. Lott, Miss Anna Beatty, C. E. Abbott, C. F. Hughes, Miss Nellie Smith, Miss Vera Neely, Miss Anna L. Conrath and Miss Carlotta Agerton.

Miami University, Oxford, Ohio—The Misses Mabel Bowsher, Helen King, Hazel McClellan, Birdie Cary, Mildred Jones, Winifred Horton, Grace May, Pauline Bowman and Marie Sweeney.

Ypsilanti Normal, Ypsilanti, Michigan—The Misses Elsie Snyder, Marjorie Leech, Effie Oliphant, Anna Kline, Nellie Huffman, Clara Leach, Lena Schaefer, F. Belle Gibbs and Clara Hoegner.

Ohio University, Athens, Ohio—The Misses Lorena Bush, Eva Keoch, Margaret Coolahan, Margaret Bush, Helen Winemiller, Violet Lewis, Kate Williams, Pearl Cassidy, Kate Campbell, Frances Mowery and Florence Bower.

Ohio State Normal, Bowling Green, Ohio—The Misses Lucile Orchard, Ruth Stoner, Hazel Hempel, Mildred Mercer, Ruth Neubrecht and F. L. Teal.

Ohio Northern University, Ada—E. S. Poling, the Misses Ethel Belton, Minnie Bloxham and Teresa Grady.

The Misses Elizabeth Parrette and Naomi Shreeve, Chautauque, N. Y.; Miss Lizzie Price, State Normal, Kent, Ohio; Miss Edith Simpson, University of Chicago; Miss Kathryn Weadock, University of Michigan; Anne Arbor; Miss Caroline Reagan, Ann Arbor; University of Wisconsin, Madison; Isaac N. Hill, Bradley Institute; Miss Mary Armstrong, University of Chicago or Teachers' College of Columbia, New York City; Miss Mary Arthur, Teachers' College or Ypsilanti; Miss Jennie B. Ezer, Teachers' College or Ypsilanti; Miss Margaret BeVan, Ypsilanti or Chicago University; Miss Giovanna Lyons, undecided.

CARRANZA WILL GET SHARP REPLY IN NOTE

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The United States' answer to the last note from General Carranza, probably will not be made until after the St. Louis convention ends this week. It was said in administration circles today. The delay was considered advisable to eliminate chances that any action toward Mexico at this time might be interpreted as prompted by political influences.

That course has been laid particularly in view of Carranza's strong intimations that the United States dealings with Mexico have been determined by questions of internal politics in this country. The answer which Secretary Lansing is preparing will rebuke General Carranza sharply for that intimation, it is said.

Administration officials are still visibly worried over the possibility of serious anti-American outbreaks in Mexico, but they are determined not to take the initiative in any aggressive action.

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 14.—Mexican agitators in the guise of laborers are said to have appeared in the American engineering camp at Las Palomas, seven miles south of here. The agitators are threatening their countrymen employed in constructing a new wagon road to Colonia Dublin, if they continue to work for Americans, according to reports received here today. One Mexican has been arrested, it is said, and other arrests are expected to follow. So far none of the three hundred Mexican workmen has quit.

HUGHES IS BUSY.

NEW YORK, June 14.—With no definite appointments in prospect during the day, but prepared to confer with many callers with political and personal missions, Charles E. Hughes, republican candidate for president entered his headquarters here shortly before noon.

Mr. Hughes' campaign plans were still indefinite today. He will remain here until Saturday afternoon when he will go out of town over the week-end, returning late Sunday night or early Monday, and on Monday will start for Providence, to address the Brown University graduates.

Everett Colby of New Jersey, a progressive leader, was expected to call on Mr. Hughes today. He visited headquarters yesterday but found the candidate out.

Lincoln Highway Beckons Westward

Transcontinental Route to Be Main Avenue of Eastern Tourists In 1916.

(By Roy D. Chapin, Vice-President of the Lincoln Highway Association)

At this time, when all nature invites the motorist to tour far abroad, the Lincoln highway is a perfect dirt boulevard for nearly 400 miles. When dry, the tourist can easily drive across this state in two days, but should not attempt to drive at all if it rains.

The situation in Nebraska is much the same as in Iowa, with the exception that the drawback to permanent construction in this state is not legislative, but on the contrary, is due entirely to lack of finances, as in fact is the case in Wyoming, Utah and Nevada. In all these western states, the population of the counties is so sparse and the proportionate mileage so tremendous that it is impossible for the people to build permanent roads of the type found in our eastern states. It is, in fact, from the Missouri river west to the California line that the Lincoln highway association's chief efforts have been centered, and are being centered, in the securing of the necessary outside aid to enable the trans-state road in each state to be brought up to eastern standards. Yet the work on the Lincoln highway in Nebraska has been enormous. Every county has erected itself to the utmost, and as in Iowa, the Lincoln highway is graded, dragged, and in general maintained in excellent condition for dry weather driving.

Accommodations along the route west of the Missouri river, while adequate, are in the main poor, although the stimulus of the Lincoln highway traffic is gradually and surely improving the standard of the accommodations offered. Many tourists prefer to camp out west of Omaha, but this is by no means necessary, as a hotel of some kind can be reached for every night's stop if a proper schedule is laid out. Excellent hostilities which compare favorably with the best the east has to offer are, of course, found in the larger cities.

The Lincoln highway in Wyoming is largely of excellent gravel construction. Gravel is abundant in this state, and the Lincoln highway from Cheyenne to Salt Lake City is practically a boulevard for much of its length. The beauties of a drive through this section cannot be overstated. In this state, one crosses the national divide near Laramie, and proceeding westward over that high plateau formed by the Rockies, drives into Utah through some of the world's most beautiful scenery down canyons filled with the sound of tinkling mountain streams, overhead the snow-capped peaks, and beneath the green grass and wild flowers of those high mountain meadows. In June, the tourist driving through Parley's canyon into Salt Lake City can lean from his car and pick blossoms growing in wild profusion along the road.

At Salt Lake City begins that section of the route which has an imagination so frequently daunted the tourist considering a drive to the Pacific coast—"the desert." "The Desert" has a sinister sound, and conjure up in the imagination, from the tales of previous days and from the recollections of the hardships undergone by our forefathers in crossing these barren plains of alkali dust, a conception which is entirely inaccurate as applying to present day conditions. The word "desert" as broadly applied would cover that entire expanse of territory from the western foothills of the Rockies to the eastern foothills of the Sierra Nevada range, and yet in its restricted sense, there is probably not 100 miles of real desert to be crossed. The Lincoln highway has broken the terrors of desert travel for the motorist as the Union Pacific once did for the travelers of a generation ago.

The desert need have no alarms for the modern motorist on the Lincoln highway. On the contrary, every transcontinental tourist should look forward to his drive across this section of our country with the keenest anticipation of new experiences, new pleasures and new scenic delights. Nowhere on the globe can the true desert be viewed with such safety and comfort as in a drive over the Lincoln highway. Only the Sahara could give the traveler the same sights and sensations. The delights of eastern touring fade into insignificance when, after hours of travel over desolate, salt-encrusted plains, treeless, motionless save for the silently shifting dunes and the occasional ghostly sand whirl which flits across the horizon, or the gleam and shimmer of cool and sparkling lakes seen in mirage, one dips down into some fertile, smiling river valley, and follows the course of the rippling stream through those irrigated gardens which the perseverance and resources of the west have evolved from the hitherto unproductive desert.

The body of W. J. Collins, 50, plasterer, found in a shed back of the Holleran hotel at 953 South Main street, Monday morning, will be buried tomorrow. Since death it has been resting at the Whitley mortuary in East North street. Although Collins is thought to have had a sister on South Main street, no claim has been made to the body. Interment will be in the county infirmary cemetery.

COLLINS FUNERAL TOMORROW.

At this time, when all nature invites the motorist to tour far abroad, the Lincoln highway is a perfect dirt boulevard for nearly 400 miles. When dry, the tourist can easily drive across this state in two days, but should not attempt to drive at all if it rains.

Yet the work on the Lincoln highway in Nebraska has been enormous. Every county has erected itself to the utmost, and as in Iowa, the Lincoln highway is graded, dragged, and in general maintained in excellent condition for dry weather driving.

Accommodations along the route west of the Missouri river, while adequate, are in the main poor, although the stimulus of the Lincoln highway traffic is gradually and surely improving the standard of the accommodations offered. Many tourists prefer to camp out west of Omaha, but this is by no means necessary, as a hotel of some kind can be reached for every night's stop if a proper schedule is laid out. Excellent hostilities which compare favorably with the best the east has to offer are, of course, found in the larger cities.

POSTOFFICE MUST SAVE WASTE PAPER

Postmaster Sullivan Receives Explicit Orders From Department.

Even the United States government has decided to save waste paper. An order issued by A. S. Burleson, postmaster general, and forwarded to Postmaster J. E. Sullivan of Lima, says that all postmasters shall carefully preserve all waste paper, which includes dead and unclaimed domestic printed matter, facing slips that have been used, and all other useless paper and all waste, including remnants of waste unit for use. As much as possible should be realized from this waste matter, and when practicable it should be sold before the expiration of the quarter and the proceeds accounted for as postal funds. Sales should be made in the neighborhood of the post office, if possible. Waste paper and waste cannot be sent free in the mails to a purchaser, and mail bags shall not be used to store or carry it away.

Undeliverable printed matter, such as picture cards, newspapers, magazines and other periodical publications, falling within the term "waste paper," for which no sale can be effected, may, if suitable for the purpose, be delivered by postmasters, on application therefor, to the proper local municipal authorities for distribution to hospitals, asylums or other charitable or reformatory institutions.

The postmaster general is authorized to sell as waste paper or otherwise dispose of the files of papers which have accumulated or may hereafter accumulate in post offices, that are not needed in the transaction of current business and have no permanent value or historic interest, and pay the proceeds of said sales into the treasury as postal revenues.

CHAIRMAN MCCOMBS RAPS REPUBLICANS IN OPENING ADDRESS AT CONVENTION

COLISEUM, ST. LOUIS, June 14.—In calling the democratic national convention to order at noon today, Chairman William F. McCombs, of the democratic national committee, spoke as follows:

"We are in an atmosphere of victory. We have no feeling of guess, but a spirit of certainty. We meet to celebrate the marvelous achievements of the democratic party since it came into power and to place a milestone upon the path of its future success.

"Over two thousand years ago, an old slave related the fable of the frog who wanted to grow to the size of an elephant. Such was the ambition of his soul that his body swelled to an enormous proportion. Indeed Aesop went so far as to predict that the frog, upon reaching the size of the elephant, would burst. I commend to your notice the wisdom of Aesop. It took over two thousand years for his prophecy to come true. Only last week the frog-phantom—or the elephant-frog—exploded. The republican party for years succeeded in deceiving the country. Now it is successfully deceiving itself. In its platform it offers pulchritudinous promises—but with vacuous intent. It promises the country in the main, what the democratic party has already been in the process of doing, saving always, the bogus god—"protection."

"This is a crucial hour in the history of the world. It is an hour in which every man should take stock of himself and his principles. This is an hour when every one should see whether in his inner consciousness he squares with the ideals of 1776, and the latter periods of dramatic episode, when this country resolutely maintained peace with honor.

"The democratic party in the face of candidulous and vicious attacks, have maintained this great American ideal. While for peace, it has steadily and surely worked for sound and practical preparedness. It has maintained a solemn, and calm dignity in the face of circumstances which might have drawn it into the vortexes of world destruction. Though vilified by self-seekers it has maintained friendly relations throughout the world. It has been true to the spirit of America; it has been true to the great principles of Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Jackson; it has allowed no selfish interest to blind it to the fundamental principles of its faith and the country has found that its confidence has been well confined.

"The democratic party has proved itself a party of principles; a party of constructive ability, a party of performance. It has proved that ideals can be realized. United we stand for America."

of the real progressives individually to our ranks, offering them a haven, in a principle. Their leader has abandoned them with crass cruelty.

"The gentleman from Oyster Bay in a recent letter to Chicago quoted Abraham Lincoln as saying 'May not all, having a common interest, unite in a common effort to save our common country.' Ladies and gentlemen, I beg to call your attention to the words 'unite.' The words 'Save the country' have been the disguise of the opposition for years. There may be a political war today in this country, but that war only exists between factions. Why did the gentleman quote the words of Lincoln, in the hope of reuniting Americans? No, Americans are reunited as never before. He meant by reuniting that two factions of his party should reunite. These two factions or parts of them hoped to join for self-aggrandizement. Leaders of these two factions—factions powers, however strained and however divided irreconcilable principles, for the insidious purpose of overthrowing a third entity which for the past four years stood united in a common cause; whose shibboleth is one for all and all for one; equal rights and special privileges to none; whose chief tenet of faith is that America is American and Americans are Americans.

Crucial Hour.

"This is a crucial hour in the history of the world. It is an hour in which every man should take stock of himself and his principles. This is an hour when every one should see whether in his inner consciousness he squares with the ideals of 1776, and the latter periods of dramatic episode, when this country resolutely maintained peace with honor.

"The democratic party in the face of candidulous and vicious attacks, have maintained this great American ideal. While for peace, it has steadily and surely worked for sound and practical preparedness. It has maintained a solemn, and calm dignity in the face of circumstances which might have drawn it into the vortexes of world destruction. Though vilified by self-seekers it has maintained friendly relations throughout the world. It has been true to the spirit of America; it has been true to the great principles of Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Jackson; it has allowed no selfish interest to blind it to the fundamental principles of its faith and the country has found that its confidence has been well confined.

"The democratic party has proved itself a party of principles; a party of constructive ability, a party of performance. It has proved that ideals can be realized. United we stand for America."

SPENCERVILLE GOOD ROADS DAY DRAWS

Delegations from the Lima Automobile club, from the Good Roads committee of the Chamber of Commerce and outsiders in general, including about a hundred people, went to Spencerville today, to watch the progress of the making of good roads, under the new plan instituted there. The fine summer weather gave the workmen every opportunity to complete the 20 miles of road undertaken. It was one of the most unique methods of road building ever attempted in this part of the country.

Both the Gramm-Bernstein and Garford Manufacturing company donated their unloading trucks for use in the work. Five hundred workmen, all volunteers, 100 teams, 10 tractors, 4 scarifiers, 10 graders, 15 trucks, 10 graduate engineers and 100 of spectators watched the movement from the time the work started this morning until all efforts ceased at 5:30 o'clock. Big whistles, blowing loud and long, announced the beginning of work this morning. An hour was taken off for dinner.

A big parade over the principal streets of Spencerville will be held this evening at 7 o'clock. Free ice cream cones will be given children in the line of march. Free lemonade was dispensed to all who wished it, big and little. A mammoth flashlight picture of the road will be made at 8 o'clock, the same to be submitted to magazine, with a view to securing a prize in a $26,000 competition.

OLD GLORY FLOATS IN LIMA TODAY

Although the business district was ablaze with "Old Glory" today, not alone because of Flag day, but out of regard for Lima's guests, visiting firemen of Ohio, the residence district was decorated more generally than ever before. Mayor Simpson issued a proclamation, asking that citizens decorate. Lima's residents are naturally patriotic and ever ready to display the national colors.

The stars and stripes were swung to the breeze from masts on public buildings and the fronts of practically all business houses are decorated with the national colors.

At the governor's office in Columbus it is said Flag day this year was being more generally observed in Ohio than ever before since the inauguration of the custom.

A pretty feature at the Allen county court house was the placing in the earth in the court house yard of dozens of small flags, which unfurled their colors to the breeze from the soft green sward below. Janitor Conrad placed the flags, carrying out a systematic line of the little emblems. The large decorations at the court house have been in place since Sunday.

PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nordquist will leave tomorrow for Springfield, where they will make their home. Mr. Nordquist will be physical director at the Y. M. C. A. building in that city.

County Commissioners James L. Heath, Frank Wright and Walter Craig, Auditor T. A. Welsh and his deputies, Harold B. Mowery and Guy Shaffer, were among county officials who attended the Good Roads meeting at Spencerville today.

NIAGARA STILL ATTRACTS WITH THRILL OF AWE

THE BIG FALLS.

(By Frederic J. Haskin.)

NIAGARA, N. Y., June 14.—Going over Niagara Falls in a barrel is one of the oldest stunts in America. The newspaper story about someone who did it is a sort of national chestnut. And yet if someone were to announce his intention of going over Niagara in a barrel tomorrow, there would be a large crowd on hand to see him do it and everyone who couldn't be there would read about it in the papers the next day.

It is the same way with everything about the great falls. They have been visited and exploited and written about ever since the first white man laid eyes upon it, yet the interest in them never dims. It is a fact amply attested by the registers of Niagara hotels that he who looks upon the falls once nearly always comes back to look again.

Speaking of going over the falls in a barrel, there is an old lady here engaged in selling post cards to tourists who did the trick successfully some 40 years ago. Her story deserves to rank as one of the hardest luck yarns in all the world.

At the time she made the famous leap she was a beautiful young woman, who had come to Niagara to earn a living. She fell very much in love with a young man, who was as penniless as herself. They put their heads together to devise a method of getting money to set up house-keeping. The young woman, full of the courage of her devotion, proposed to go over the falls in a barrel while her lover was to collect admission from the people who came to see the event. She leaped the falls and was towed ashore, unhurt and triumphant. But alas for love's young dream! Her fiancé had left for parts unknown with the gate receipts.

Most of the lovers who come to Niagara, however, are happy newly married ones. First-class honeymoons for couples from the country are Niagara's most important and remunerative products. Of course, the citizens will tell you that they really make their money out of a tremendous commercial development. But you have only to observe the respectful consideration with which the newly-weds are treated, to realize that Niagara knows a good thing when it sees it.

Why people jump over Niagara Falls is a question often threshed out in hotel lobbies here. It appears that only three have ever done so and come out alive. Some of the victims, of course, obviously intend to commit suicide, while in other cases the reason for the desperate leap was not at all clear. Psychologists claim that not only the cataraict itself, but the foaming rapids below, in which so many have gone to their deaths, exercise an irresistible fascination over some persons, that they leap in spite of themselves.

Every precaution is now taken to prevent such occurrences. In order to end your troubles by the romantic method of leaping into the foaming torrent nowadays you must first overcome a large and healthy policeman, and then climb a high iron railing.

Everyone does exactly the same things at Niagara, and that no doubt is one of its charms to the mass of tourists who pour through the town every summer. They do not have to think where to go, or how. The first thing, of course, is to peer over the railing at the great falls, to experience the appropriate sensations and utter the appropriate scream, gasp or sigh of delight. Everyone, of course, is deeply and properly impressed. The comments of the feminine visitors assay about 98 per cent staccato superlatives while the masculine comment, though more restrained, is no less enthusiastic. Few are disappointed, for the falls is truly a bigger thing than the average mind can preconceive.

After the glimpse of the falls from above, you climb aboard the "Maid of the Mist," the brides conceal their loveliness in long rubber coats, with immense hoods, and you experience the thrill of going close enough to the falls to have spray splashed all over you.

Finally, if you are a real American tourist from up the country—the kind that believes in doing the things up right—you will drop into a little souvenir store and have your photograph taken to show you and the girls with Niagara Falls in the background, the falls, of course, being somewhat crudely painted on the back drop.

There are innumerable other fascinating souvenir stores to tempt the nickles and dimes and quarters out of your pockets. That they do so successfully is attested by the fact that Niagara has grown from a town of 20,000 to one of 50,000 in the last 20 years, and that many of its hotel and store keepers spend their winters in Florida.

When business gets slack it is customary in Niagara to plan an excursion from some part of the state. Although you would think that everyone in New York had been to Niagara at least once, there are always thousands ready to take advantage of these opportunities. The people of Niagara can calculate with great accuracy just what an excursion will put in their pockets, except for one uncertain element, and that is the weather. They know that the average excursion day tourist will spend exactly $1 in Niagara. On an excursion from central New York a few weeks ago, they confidently predicted that 8,000 persons would come to the city, provided it did not rain. Betting on the weather, all the hotel and restaurant keepers engaged extra waiters and prepared a dinner for the crowd. But they lost it rained all day, and exactly 25 bedraggled strangers showed up at the feast. Needless to say, Niagara went in the hole on that excursion, but she averages up pretty well.

The tourists, however, are not Niagara's only source of wealth by any means. About a mile above the rapids stand two stately buildings of Gothic architecture, surrounded by pretty, sloping lawns. They might well be cathedrals, so quiet do they look at a distance. As a matter of fact, under their gray roof and towers is generated one of the most immense currents of power in all the world. These are the plants where the waters of Niagara are caught and plunged through great penstocks to turn the turbines in the wheel pits far below.

The wheel pits in which these turbines are located are 200 feet deep, and in a tiny elevator the privileged visitor is dropped to the bottom of them. Descending this brilliantly lighted shaft with the hum and whirr of the mighty machines in your ears, conveys almost as great an expression of the mighty power of the falls as looking upon the waters themselves.

These great power plants are models of efficiency. There has been scarcely a hitch or an accident in their operation. An exception occurred recently when lightning struck one of the cables which carries power from the plant to a little town about 15 miles away. The lightning bolt was carried by the cable directly to the great generator, completely burning out its armature. The damage was repaired, however, without causing the slightest inconvenience to any of the cities that are lighted by the power of the falls.

WEST CAIRO

Rev. J. L. Wright preached at the M. E. church on last Sunday evening.

The Bethel Grove church had their children's day services Sunday evening.

Rev. L. D. Wert and family attended a reunion at Criderville, Sunday.

The Sigma Omicron Phi club met with Miss Marie Martz Monday evening. They are planning a outing at the lake some time in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harpster had for their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coffin of Waynesfield. Quite a crowd from Cairo attended the "Flower Mission" day at the county home on last Sunday.

Mrs. L. H. Hannan entertained the ladies of the W. C. T. U. at her home Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Harpster and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harpster will leave in a few days for Indian River, Mich.

Miss Josephine Marmon's pupils at Cairo will give a recital at the Christian church on next Saturday evening. No admission charges. Everybody welcome.

Mrs. W. T. Moore who suffered a very painful accident is improving nicely, though the doctor has still to dress her hand daily.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Martz of Dayton, were week-end guests of Mrs. Martz' mother, Mrs. Mattie Harpster.

How to Prevent Croup. Every effort should be made to prevent the attacks by giving the child a light supper and plenty of fresh air at all times. The child should be warmly clad when out of doors. Especially the feet should be well protected and under no circumstances should the child be allowed to remain with wet or cold feet. Then watch for the first symptom, hoarseness, and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at once and the attack may be warded off. This remedy is a favorite with the mothers of croupy children and can always be depended upon. It is pleasant and safe to take. Obtainable everywhere. mo-wed-tri

RAILWAY CONFERENCE ENDS.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Railway managers and officials of railway unions who have been discussing wages and hours of work believed that this would be the last day of their conference and that it would end in a deadlock. The conference has been in session most of the time since June 1 and is estimated to have cost upwards of $100,000. More than 800 delegates from the unions of railway employees representing 350,000 workers have attended. The union men have rejected flatly a proposal by the managers that no man shall be paid twice for the same time, although his day may be divided between two classes of work.

FRANCIS WILL NOT ADDRESS FIREMEN

Unutterable woe greeted the announcement this morning that Francis Bartlett Willis will not be able to speak at the firemen's convention here tomorrow. The following telegram, received by Clerk of Council James L. Heffner, tells the sad news.

Have a previous engagement to speak at Norwalk, Thursday. Cannot come to Lima. Sorry.

"F. B. WILLIS"

STILL NEGLECTING DUTIES TO SPEAK

COLUMBUS, O., June 14.—Governor Frank B. Willis today entered on a three days' speaking tour and indications are the trip will virtually mark his active entrance in his campaign for re-election.

Tonight he will make an address to Civil War veterans and affiliated organizations at the fiftieth encampment of the Ohio Grand Army of the Republic at Marion.

Thursday the governor will address a field meet of Norwalk school children and, in the evening will talk to a men's brotherhood of the Baptist church there.

RUBE CAME OUT AHEAD.

SANDUSKY, O., June 14.—Ralph Decker, 49, farmer, followed Patrolman Henry Ringholz over two city blocks, arguing that a man when drunk cannot extract more milk from a cow than he can when sober. Decker was escorted to jail. Then the police were non-pulsed as to what charge to enter against him. Disorderly conduct, officials said, would not do, and "molesting an officer" would not look well on the police blotter, so Decker was released.

WHAT TIME THEY LOST.

KENTON, O., June 14.—After a courtship of 42 years, P. L. Yates, 67 years of age, and Miss Kate Reager, 56, have been married. Their courtship began in school. Yates said he believed he could never marry until he owned 1,000 acres of land and had built and furnished a home for his bride.

YOUNGSTOWN—Earl G. Scott, formerly an attorney here, is a lieutenant in the expeditionary force sent to the war by Canada recently, according to word received here. He enlisted under the name of Donald Scott Gregory, it is said.

MOCK WEDDING IS FILMED FOR MOVIES

Enthusiasm ran high and interest was great for the mock wedding at the German Reformed church this morning at 10 o'clock, which was pictured and the film is to be shown next week at the Lyric theatre for the benefit of the gymnasium fund of the Business Woman's Club. This church building was selected because of its position regarding the run.

This was the climax to the romance wherein Oscar B. Wahl married Mrs. Berda Ewing Fritz, leading man and woman respectively, in the romance which will be shown in this picture of scenes taken about Lima.

For the same reason the son was not in perfect position, the home of Henry Deisel, Sr., on South Cole street, was selected for the garden party this afternoon. Here the principals meet for the first time. Fashionable young people attended and added to the attractiveness of the film. Originally, it had been planned to use the home of W. L. Russell.

Scenes at the heroine's home were taken yesterday. The B. A. Gramm residence on South Cole street, in its pretty exterior and interior views, was used for this purpose.

Girls of the Business Woman's gymnasium club are selling tickets for the moving pictures, which will be shown of these scenes at the Lyric. All funds realized go to aid the gymnasium cause.

Daily Thought.
If a man examines his thoughts, he will find them all occupied with the past and the future. We hardly ever think about the present. . . . Thus, always laying ourselves out to be happy (in the future) it is inevitable that man cannot be so actually.—Pascal.

TELEPHONES

AT ST. LOUIS

This afternoon the quaint old city of St. Louis witnesses the opening of the first national gathering of the Democratic party with a president at Washington since 1896. It is in the city where that party nominated Parker, the worst defeated nominee since 1872. But who dares compare the tragedies of 1896 and 1904 to the present gathering?

In 1896 the party met with a panic raging in the nation. A president was a Democrat, a 1 while he had nothing to do with the financial flurry, did not start it, could not stop it and had no connection with it, the popular mind connected the party with the depression. The Democrats met at Chicago with not the slightest idea whom they would nominate, dabbled around indefinitely and finally honored "the boy orator of the Platte," a remarkable speaker but too little known to be a sure drawing card under the conditions. The free silver platform was met with a bolt by the Goldbugs, and the Palmer-Buckner ticket aided in the election of McKinley.

In 1904 the party made the mistake of choosing a compromise candidate with a record well-nigh colorless. He was a new man without the required record in public life, opposed to a man then at the height of his popularity. Whatever we may say of Roosevelt today, after his assinine actions of recent years, it must be acknowledged that the nation was not "on to" him then.

But today the Democratic party meets with a president in the White House who has achieved a remarkable record. His policies have been successful, his promises put into effect and his career unstained by scandals of any nature. He is seeking re-election on a platform which cannot fail to meet with popular approval. He has as evidence of his merit the best of all political arguments—the four years' record as a faithful public servant.

There will be harmony at St. Louis. The nation is solidly behind the policies to which the president would pledge the party—preparedness, rural credits and the rest. There is no opposition to his renomination, and the second place will in all probability go uncontested. The party is united.

WHAT'S THE IDEA?

In Shakespeare's "As You Like It" there is a delightful little conversation between Touchstone, a court jester, and Corin, a rustic shepherd typical of the colts of that day. Shakespearean fools are the brightest characters in their respective plays, and in the course of the conversation Touchstone demands of Corin the proof of a statement, with the challenge: "Instance, briefly; come, instance."

The challenge may well be extended to the Republican nominee for the presidency. Hughes has emitted a voluminous, spectacular, grandiose, voluble, grandstand oration quite unworthy of a man such as he was generally considered to be. He assails the president with charges of weakness and inefficiency, lack of courage and elemental timidity. But he avoids all reference to the course which he would follow if elected.

The nation does not want vague references or sweeping generalities. It wants specific declarations in favor of or against a certain set of definite policies. If the administration course toward submarine warfare is too weak, will Hughes, if elected, advocate war? Unless he does he must close his vocal orifice or be branded as an inconsistent bluffer. If the administration policy toward Mexico is too cowardly, will Hughes, if elected, throw away the lives of American boys, unprepared, unequipped and untrained in the manual of defense, to protect the stolen property of American capitalists? Must he, must smother or his attentions—or accept the classification of a two-faced demagogue.

No matter how much negative campaign matter the G. O. P. may try to utilize, resorting to unsupported defamation and attack, there must be something of the positive before the nation will trust a candidate. Hughes must tell what he would do that Wilson has left undone and what he would refuse to do which the administration has done. Platitudes are poor planks to use in building a program of policy. "Instance, briefly; come, instance."

MAKING AUTO TAGS

The State Board of Administration, says the Columbus Dispatch, must compete with private firms before the auto tags for Ohio automobilists may be made at the penitentiary. Heretofore they have been made by private firms and more than once a scandal has arisen because of favoritism on the part of the secretary of state. Politics includes many minor details which carry profit. The case involving Secretary Hildebrandt and Senator Wickline is the most startling evidence of official graft yet presented in this department.

The suggestion that the tags be made by the state, with the Ohio penitentiary as workshop and convicts as workmen, was a sign of returning sanity in public administration. The state institutions are furnished with clothing, printing, furniture and many other commodities made by convicts under the control of the state. The state thus reduces expenses, removes opportunities for grafting, utilizes men who would otherwise be idle and makes the cost of caring for the unfortunate. Why not the same with auto tags?

These little plates are articles needed by the state and sold by the state for licensed cars. The autist of Ohio is charged five dollars for a tin tag costing about nineteen cents. Now why in the name of common sense should the state not make the tags without consulting others? They could be turned out cheaply and the gain saved to the auto owner by a reduction of the license tax. The plates themselves should not be sold at a profit.

It has not been long since a governor styled the prison an idle house where men grow mentally unbalanced for lack of an occupation. Give a convict work to do and the chances are greater for his reformation, as there is less time for brooding over misfortune. The fact that the State Board of Administration is to be compelled to submit bids for the tags carries the inference that some influences not yet identified are too powerful in their "pull" at Columbus.

After copping the corn championship twice and the spelling medal this year, Darke county now has another claim to fame for her boys. Three sons of former Sheriff John E. Haber were graduated at Ohio State university on the same day last week, each with high marks and all of them after working their own way through the institution.

There are plenty of reasons why a girl modeled on the lines of Venus de Milo should affect the ultra-modern in dress, but some of those fashioned after the same general contour of a telephone pole must be kidding themselves.

The firemen who visit Lima this week might have some interesting remarks to make about Cap Gal's order reducing the speed of the motor fire truck to twenty miles per hour or perhaps.

By DAISY DEAND

"THE BONDSMAN" is one more novel which has been lifted from the realms of fiction and placed on the screen. Hall Caine undoubtedly had little idea that his book would be visualized when he wrote it, but times change and now the book has been made into a moving picture by the Fox Film company. William Farnum has the leading role and he has the support of Dorothy Bernard, the little lady who so often plays opposite him.

Theatrical Story in McDermott Film. Marc McDermott, now a recognized Vitaphone player, is making great headway in a Blue Ribbon feature written especially for Mr. McDermott by Louis Joseph Vance. It will be completed in time for release during the early summer.

In this story Mr. Vance tells of the struggle for existence of a young girl who endeavors to make a name for herself in the theatrical world. How she is assisted by a young playwright who falls in love with her is graphically portrayed. The picture gives a good idea of the life and people of "the painted world."

The Fine Arts company with Douglas Fairbanks as star, and Alan Dwan as director, are still in the big tree country of California working on scenes for "In the Carquinez Woods". In this story, Fairbanks appears in the part of a half breed.

E. H. Sothorn has started work at the Vitaphone studio and will begin his camera record with Justin Huntley McCarthy's play, "If I Were King". It is expected that Anita Stewart will play with Mr. Sothorn.

Robert Wilson, who has been associated with the Thanhouser company for three years, playing juvenile leads, has recently joined the Metro company. He will play in Sidney Drew's company.

Iva Shepherd of the Gaumont company says any screen kiss lasting more than six feet of film is just a matter of business. Being Gaumont's vampire, she has many matters of business.

Dorothy Bernard

For some years she was a star on the legitimate stage, and appeared in Frohman's production of "The Amazons". She has also starred at the head of her own company, and is well known in stock all over the country. The experience thus gained won her immediate success, when she decided to go into the films.

HEALTHHINTS

TRIP INTO WOODS IS BEST VACATION FOR CHILDREN

Schools throughout the country have been or soon will be closed and thousands of boys and girls will be ready for summer holidays. After their winter's work in school they need change and healthful exercise.

It's a serious problem how boys and girls shall spend their vacations. Of course there are always good and bad diversions at hand for healthy youngsters.

Through their parents' lack of interest many children form bad habits and cultivate evil associates during vacations.

Boys' and girls' minds need entertaining occupation. Their bodies need plenty of healthful exercise. The parents should try to guide this natural craving and share in some of the vacation amusements of their children.

Every boy and girl naturally has something of the love of our forefathers for the woods and streams. Cultivate this and share it.

This will serve to give you an agreeable change and will encourage the girls and boys to take an interest in the wonders of God's great out of doors. You can do nothing better for their health, enjoyment and future happiness than to stimulate their interest in these things.

SUBMARINING THE OYSTER.

An American inventor has found a new use for the busy submarine in the gathering of shell-fish from the sea-bottom. The apparatus most generally in use at present consists of a dredge fitted with a rake and a mesh bag, which trails along the sea-bed and gathers in oysters and other shell-fish. The weakness of the system lies in the fact that it crushes and kills many oysters and soft-shelled clams. The oyster-

Investments Bought from Resident Salesmen

The difference between a salesman who resides permanently in his own territory and one who travels from place to place, is purely a moral difference, upon which it would be impossible to place a value in dollars and cents. Yet there is a difference, and it is one which tends to strengthen the position of the investor who purchases preferred stock from a resident salesman as well as the investment broker who markets securities through him.

For more than 12 years our preferred stocks have been marketed through resident salesmen, and the reason why these men (150 of them in all) stand so well among their friends and neighbors is because no one who acted on their advice has ever lost a dollar of principal or income on funds invested in our preferred stocks. At the same time, these gentlemen know more about us than any individual investor ever has time to find out. They remain loyal through thick and thin because their own funds are invested in securities we have recommended, and they know by experience what to expect from us in the way of protection.

If you have $100 or more to invest, or if you are a responsible person, who should be able to discuss investments and other matters intelligently, we will send you a copy of our 1916 "Portfolio of Anniversary Reports." It contains detailed information about 20 large manufacturing enterprises and much valuable information about preferred stocks. We will send you this publication without obligation or expense if you will send us your name and address on a post-card. Do so at once, before you forget.

HEALTH INSURANCE IS URGED BY U. S. EXPERTS, REPORT

Average Illness Per Year, 9
Days, For Each Worker.

Governmental System, Not
Paternal, is Solution
Approved.

Twenty-five out of every 1,000 employees in American industries, according to recent statistics, are constantly incapacitated by sickness, the average worker losing approximately nine days each year on this account.

This "non-effective rate" for the great army of industrial workers in the United States barely suggests the total money loss to employers and employees. The lessened efficiency, the effects of reduced earnings in times of sickness, as well as the cost of medical attention, and the economic loss from deaths, swell the cost to industry and to the nation to almost incalculable figures.

That much of this loss is nothing less than preventable waste and that this waste can be largely reduced by a properly conducted system of governmental health insurance for wage workers are conclusions set forth in Public Health Bulletin No. 76, containing the results of a study of "Health Insurance—Its Relation to the Public Health", just issued by the United States public health service.

The preventive value of health insurance is given especial emphasis in this study. "Any system of health insurance for the United States or any state should at its inception have prevention of sickness as one of its fundamental purposes," says the bulletin. "This country should profit by the experience of European countries where prevention is being recognized as the central idea necessary to health insurance if health insurance is to attain its greatest success in improving the health and efficiency of the industrial population."

Such a system, it is pointed out in the bulletin, would

1. Provide cash benefits and medical service for all wage-earners in times of sickness at much less cost than is now possible. Adequate medical relief would thus be placed within the reach of even the lowest paid workers who are most subject to ill-health.

2. Distribute the cost among employers, employees, and the public as the groups responsible for disease causing conditions and afford these groups a definite financial incentive for removing these conditions. This can be done by means of small weekly payments from employers, supplemented by proportionate contributions from employees and government at a rate reducible in proportion to the reduction of sickness.

3. Become an effective health measure by linking the co-operative efforts of the three responsible groups with the work of national, state and local health agencies, and by utilizing these agencies in the administration of the health insurance system.

4. Afford a better basis for the co-operation of the medical profession with public health agencies.

5. Eliminate the elements of paternalism and charity-giving by making employees and the public, as well as employers, joint agents in the control of this fund.

"A governmental system of health insurance," concludes the study, "can be adapted to American conditions, and when adapted will prove to be a health measure of extraordinary value."

SHOULD SLOAN'S LINIMENT GO ALONG?
Of course it should! For after a strenuous day when your muscles have been exercised to the limit an application of Sloan's Liniment will take the soreness and stiffness away and get you in fine shape for the morrow. You should also use it for a sudden attack of toothache, stiff neck, backache, stings, bites and the many accidents that are incidental to a vacation. "We would as soon leave our baggage as go on a vacation or camp out without Sloan's Liniment," writes one vacationist. "We use it for everything from cramps to toothache." Put a bottle in your bag, be prepared and have no regrets.

LIMA VETS LEAVE FOR MARION MEET

To the tune of life and drum, in uniforms of blue and with a rose in the lapel of each, veterans who in the sixties marched down to the sea, fought with Grant or took part in other big battles of the war, renewed old friendships and marched with renewed vigor this morning, en route to the annual state encampment, which is being held in Marion this week. The Lima party consisted of nearly 50.

In the party were veterans of the war, their wives, representatives of the Woman's Relief Corps, Daughters of Veterans, Sons of Veterans and Spanish War Veterans. They will take part in the big parade, which will be a feature of the encampment.

way of the Erie railroad at 8 o'clock. They will return to Lima early tomorrow evening.

Hon. A. P. Sandies of Ottawa, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Ohio, marched with the veterans. He came to Lima early this morning from his Putnam county home. He brought with him a dozen or more veterans of Putnam county, who are bound for the encampment. One of these veterans was 81 years old.

Sandies and his party joined the Lima delegation here and upon reaching Marion, they all marched from the Erie station up town. Mart Armstrong drum corps was at the head and furnished martial music.

Sandies is a member of Denison camp, Sons of Veterans of Columbus. In the big parade of the veterans he will be with his camp. He was also scheduled for a brief address before the veterans today at Marion.

Too Much Work; Too Little Exercise; Liver Not Acting?

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water Before Breakfast Cleans the Liver and Bowels. Makes You Feel Fine in Thirty Minutes.

How do you feel right now? Is your tongue coated and is your head heavy and dull? Do you have stomach trouble and are you tired and listless? All these things mean a clogged liver.

Concentrated Tollo Water from Dawson Springs, Kentucky, will relieve your clogged liver, really give it a bath, flushing and emptying every tiny bile tube and start you feeling fine in thirty minutes. It gives you relief when drugs have failed; brings about natural action of the liver and bowels, cleaning out the clogged bile ducts and removing all the poisonous waste matter from the system.

Your habits of life—too little exercise, too much work, lots of rich food—require an occasional liver bath to remove the obstructions from the bile tubes and keep your liver, stomach and bowels clean and healthy.

Get a .5-cent bottle of Tollo Water from your druggist. Before breakfast take about a third of a tumbler full in a glass of drinking water. In thirty minutes it will clean out the liver and stimulate the flow of bile, which is nature's only laxative. You will at once have a clear head and a feeling of energy and ambition that will surprise and delight you. Keep taking it for a few days and your usual good health and color will return. After that an occasional wineglassful before breakfast will keep your liver active and your bowels regular.

YOUR MANNER

WHAT SORT OF a manner have you? Have you ever stopped to consider it? Or have you completely passed over it as something trivial? Someway, I think you have thought about it, sometime or other, haven't you? Perhaps it was when some one said they thought you were snobbish, or conceited, or proud, or sweet, or commanding, or anything. And if you were snobbish you were delighted that some one thought so; if you were sweet, you were pleased that some one thought so; if you were conceited you were glad you did not pass by unnoticed, and so on.

Very often we are led astray by a person's manner. It isn't always a safe plan to draw conclusions from that alone. For sometimes its loudest voice and the most annoying mannerisms that cover the truest and biggest of hearts. While on the other hand the polished lady with the most poised we find has the most selfish of natures. It doesn't of course always hold true, but as I said it is very often the case, so that one isn't safe to judge by that sign alone.

We should, however, remember, that when we meet strangers they have only our appearance, our speech and our manner, which could be termed correctly as our attitude, from which to judge us. Your personality determines your manner, and your personality is determined by your character. So study your manner and get pointers for your character reformation which will in turn help out on your personality work.

The hum of the wind in the treetops has always been good music to me, and the face of the fields has often comforted me more than the faces of men.

Ralph Gives Up His Fall Overcoat in Order That His Wife May Have an Opportunity to Wear Her Finery.

"O H, RALPH, there is the loveliest plan afoot!" exclaimed Ethel Gordon, fairly dancing with her delight, as she ran to meet her husband. "There is to be a special train to Kansas City to hear a Shakespearean play—I forgot which one—on Thursday of next week."

Illustration of a woman in a long dress and hat, looking out a window.

"Why, I thought you did not care for Shakespeare." Ralph stopped with his hand to look at her in his surprise. "No more I do, stupid," retorted Ethel, pinching his ear, "but it will take me out of this hole for a few hours, and I can wear an evening dress."

"Oh, that's it!" interrupted Ralph, turning to hang up his coat. "We can go, can't we?" asked Ethel, a note of anxiety in her voice. "What'll it cost, fare and all?" He uttered a low whistle when she named the sum.

"Every one of the Neighborhood club is going, and I told Mrs. Morton that I was sure you would want to be included, as you are crazy about Shakespeare." Ethel was hovering around her husband like a restless bird.

"You know it is only the money that makes me hesitate," he answered. "It is dreadful not to have a bit of a reserve; to be afraid to spend a dollar." Ralph's tone was hardly audible, for he was speaking more to himself than to the little woman whom he had learned by experience would do nothing but scatter the money in hand without regard for the future. His mother's warning sounded in his ears. "Ethel has never faced responsibility; therefore there is the more need for a reserve fund for emergency."

You are such an old tight wad," chaffed Ethel, raising his face to look in his eyes. "Surely you will not disappoint me."

"No, dear, I will try to arrange it so we can go. I was planning to buy a fall overcoat this month. That can go; I can get along without one." Ralph's tone was cheerful. "Oh, good!" Ethel stooped and kissed her husband. Ralph was hurt that she was willing that he should sacrifice so much for her pleasure. The truth was she had not even heard what his plan was to raise the money. All she comprehended was that he had consented to go.

"And you will wear your evening clothes. I have not seen you in them since we were married."

"I will see whether the other men are going in regalia. You know this will not be a box party." Ralph drew his wife to his knee, and she commenced rearranging his necktie with her deft little fingers, and drawing away as far as possible without rising to observe the effect of her efforts. Suddenly she threw her arms around his neck and kissed him.

"Oh, I am so glad we are going," she exclaimed rapturously. All her delight seemed to pass over into his heart and a great happiness possessed him; happiness in her joy.

"Oh, that I could make her happy all the time. My little butterfly was made for the bright weather of prosperity, not to buffet against adverse winds," he sighed faintly. "It is up to me to keep the weather warm and bright."

Woman Who Hopes to Be the "First Lady of the Land," and Daughter

MISS HELEN HUGHES

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Siferd, Jr., daughter, Luella, and Miss Helen Weenk of this city, and Mrs. Irene Hemphill of New Paris, spent Monday afternoon in Lima.

Mrs. A. W. Theide entertained sixteen members of the Blue Bird Hill club at her home yesterday afternoon. "Allen County History" was the interesting subject of discussion, members answering roll call with notes of historical interest to this vicinity. A social hour followed the program, and refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her mother Mrs. James Lewis and Mrs. F. H. Hopp, mother of the hostess, were the guests of the club for the afternoon. The next meeting will be in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Homer Ruff.

Members of the Wisteria club will meet in a week with Mrs. Roy Thomas. The meeting of yesterday was postponed.

Less than usual has been heard this year about the improved kinds of Fourth of July celebration that have gained favor in the United States. Mayor Mitchell of New York announces plans to make that city's celebration as impressive and extensive as possible, says the Christian Science Monitor, and his action includes addition of his committee of 1000 on national defense to the independence day committee that served last year. While it is said the observance is to be strictly "safe and sane," marked emphasis on that phrase will be wise to offset the words impressive and extensive, when interpreted by a regiment of national defense enthusiasts. It would be a pity to undo the good work of years with regard to the holiday, and in a city whose example is largely followed throughout the country.

This photograph of Mrs. Charles E. Hughes, wife of the republican candidate for the presidency, the woman who will be the "first lady of the land" if the ex-justices of the United States supreme court is elected president, was taken in her library at her spacious home in Washington. Mrs. Hughes is known in Washington as a woman of domestic, rather than society, tastes. Despite the fact that her husband's place made possible the highest social position in Washington, she has spent most of her time with her family. Miss Helen Hughes, the eldest daughter, has been for some time in a camp of the Young Women's Christian association in Pennsylvania.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH RAISING FUNDS

Begins Seven Days' Campaign Among Membership of Congregation.

A seven days' booster campaign for the purpose of raising funds for the purpose of re-decorating the interior of the First Christian church and for installing a new heating plant, has been launched. The membership of the church has been divided by wards into teams of six men each, headed by captains and will canvass the entire membership. The campaign will close next Tuesday evening, when the Sunshine and Helping Hand Bible classes will extend a dinner to the men.

at a dinner, served last evening in the church by the Loyal Band and Willing Workers' Bible classes of the Sunday school. Thirty-six men were seated.

The Rev. W. J. Young, newly-elected pastor, gave an address and there were brief, but enthusiastic, speeches by the team captains, G. F. Bible, C. E. Strawbridge, J. E. Cochran, Frank Priest, D. S. Blank and Pastor W. J. Young.

WORK WITH THE HANDS

Copyright 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

I JUST CLOSED a big, time-worn book which had lain on the shelf these many years, and for three hours I have been sitting crosslegged in the comfy Morris chair reading interesting paragraphs. Condensed and unraveled, here it is:

Several generations ago, there was a period of reaction from the extravagances of the Cavalier age when our forefathers became so interested in the welfare and destination of their souls they cared very little as to what became of their bodies. During that era, in spite of the large families and a high average of births, there was a great percentage of deaths. They threw their own lives and the lives of others away through their misguided efforts to mortify the flesh.

Pages of explanatory history followed, and then I pondered long upon the changes these today have made. Now we pay less morbid but more divine attention to our souls and concentrate more upon living wisely, sanely and spiritually. As an eminent college dean once preached to us, "Make your soul worth saving and it will be saved." Don't you think that as a general rule any extreme tendency to dwell too strongly upon abstractions steals from physical health and vigor? This embodies, so my big, dusty book tells me, the same principle as that followed by a certain intellectual Parisian clique who became known as "The Decadents."

Scientists propound the theory that while a small percentage inclines toward abstractions, the bulk of the people can deal more aptly with the concrete. Those who are well balanced between these extremes are rare.

There is a clash between these natural tendencies and the economic conditions in which many of us find ourselves through some strange turn of Fortune's wheel.

As I write, I am thinking of an old friend of my mother, a gray-haired, middle-aged woman. She had been raised on a farm, and was the oldest of a large family, to whom she played the tender role of a second mother.

There was much heavy work to be done in their farmhouse—fruits and vegetables to be picked, canned and marketed; cows to be milked and hungry harvesters to be fed in the busy season. But she had been trained to do her share of the chores and went about it cheerfully.

Before she had passed 30 she had married a young farmer dependent upon the living he could eke from the small farm he had inherited from his father. She had made him a worthy helpmate, shrewdly marketing the eggs and golden pats of butter she had labored to churn.

Then, in a twinkling, this busy life was ended. Oil was struck on their farm. The ambitious husband, stirred to greater activity by this unexpected fortune, moved to a city and became involved in politics. Not to be outdone by her husband, she studied hard and sought to develop mentally until she was worthy of a position in the small but amused social world of their new home.

A few years ago the husband died, and as they had no children the woman was left alone in her great, luxurious, but empty home, dissatisfied with the futile possessions which, she confided, were always stifling her. The color fled from her cheeks, her eyes grew dulled, she was listless and unhappy, and though her wealth commanded every attention, for many months she was a confirmed invalid.

She tried every recommended remedy which promised better health, she went abroad to visit famous springs, but returned dejected and disheartened.

One day she met the old country doctor who had cared for her little family of brothers and sisters. "What am I doing off?" she asked him in despair.

The First Christian church hopes to soon have one of the most beautiful and comfortable edifices in the city. Since the Rev. Mr. Young, new pastor, assumed charge of the congregation, there has been a general revival of interest in all departments of the work and the campaign inaugurated last evening is the beginning of a new era in the life of the church.

"Nothing to do," he replied laconically.
"I don't understand you—what would you advise?"
"Go back to the country," he told her, "keep busy—do anything—use your hands."
Listening, she believed. So back to the country she went, and made raising chickens her hobby. If it hadn't been for the old doctor she might have bought a well-stocked poultry farm, but his advice urged her on.
"Do all the work yourself," he had advised, and she obeyed. She gathered the eggs, tended the incubators, fed and worked over the wee downy, cuddly chickens, one batch after another, until they passed the scrawny age and became mature and fairly self-reliant chicks. Days danced into weeks, weeks into months, and behold! she was cured.
The last time mother and I visited her, she was building a chicken coop herself, carefully fitting the wire and pounding it into place.
"Work with the hands," she advised us—"that is our salvation from imaginary mental disturbances."

ST. ROSE TO HONOR TWELVE GRADUATES

Class Day Exercises Tomorrow, Commencement Friday Evening.

Twelve young people will be graduated from St. Rose Catholic schools on Friday evening. The exercises will be held in St. Rose church. The Rev. Father William Hickey, of Dayton, dean of Dayton district, will deliver the annual address. The class includes four boys and eight girls.

Those who will be given diplomas this year are: Edward Horrigan, Raymond Gorman, Arthur Kelley and Clarence McCrate, young men, and these young ladies: Kathryn Hanley, Eleanor Daley, Cecile Boyle, Alice Mummaugh, Loretta Henry, Agnes Doyle, Margaret Shea and Beatrice A. O'Connor. Edward Horrigan is president of the class.

Class day exercises will be held tomorrow, when an interesting program will be given. The class flower is the white rose and the class colors are green and white. The lower classmen have arranged a reception for the graduates as one of the closing features of the school year.

SHAWNEE KNIGHTS ELECT CURTIN HEAD

Shawnee commandery, Knights Templars, held their annual election at a meeting last night. E. R. Curtin was elected eminent commander to succeed George P. Connor, who has held the office two terms. Commander Curtin will name appointive officers after the installation at the next meeting, in two weeks.

Other officers named were: William H. Stolzenbach, generalissimo; George W. Eckert, captain general; Abner D. Sutton, senior warden; Harry M. Reed, junior warden; Howard A. Graham, prelate; Elias W. Mosier, treasurer; Ira L. Shaffer, recorder; F. E. Reynolds, sword bearer; Emmett E. Everett, standard bearer, and Christian P. Morris, warden.

EDUCATION BOARD BUDGET, $220,000

Plans For Repair of Building Received and Are Approved.

Members of the board of education last night voted on a budget of $220,000 to run the Lima schools next year. This is an increase of $20,000 over the budget of last year, but according to members of the board is necessary because of the increased attendance and tax levy. It is expected that the total amount will be divided as follows: $132,000, tuition fund; $17,000, building fund; $43,000, contingent fund and $28,000 for paying off bonds and interest on bonds.

Sweeping plans for repairing buildings according to suggestions made by the state fire marshal were presented to the board last night and approved. F. W. Mullenhour was appointed to make an inspection of all the furnaces in city school buildings. The inspection will be made after janitors have made all repairs possible in the way of patching and painting. He will report the result of his investigation at the next regular meeting of the board. It was agreed to mend the roof of the high school and place a new chimney on the Lincoln building.

The six-weeks summer school course will be opened in the next couple weeks, with Prof. S. S. Stefens in charge. Nettie M. Snook, high school German teacher will be his assistant. The board granted the use of the assembly room for holding classes. Students back in their work and desiring to make up credits will be eligible to attend the school. If successful in making up their credits they are sent on to their class at the beginning of the fall term.

Amusements

THE FAUROT'S PICTURES.

A thoroughly delightful photoplay is "Pasquale," the new Paramount production in which George Beban is being starred at the Faurot. The acting of this consummate artist in the title role elicits the warmest praise from all picturegoers. He is absolutely supreme in the delineation of Italian character and will move you as no other actor can. With the support of a well chosen cast and settings and photography of the highest order, Mr. Beban makes this simple story one of real distinction. The program also contains new Burton Holmes Travel-pictures and scenes about Lima that are very enjoyable.

STAR THEATRE.

The principal feature of the new program at the Star theatre today is a two-part Laemmle drama, "Her Soul's Song," in which Emory Johnstone and Dorothy Davenport act the principal roles. Other excellent pictures are "Betty's Hobo," a Universal comedy featuring Thomas Jefferson and Zoe Bech; "Prof. Wiseguy's Trip to the Moon," a comical travesty; "Little Journeys to Japan," a delightful bit of travel, and pictures in motion of our own fair city, with Chief Mack's firefighters as the big noise.

WOMAN'S BODY IS FOUND NEAR TRACKS

TOLEDO, O., June 14.—The body of a fashionably-dressed young woman, apparently about 25 was found three feet from the street car tracks, in Broadway at 1:20 this morning. It was discovered by Dr. W. W. Brand, passing in his automobile. Coroner Hensler found a slight bruise over the right breast and another over the left eye. The coroner's theory is that the injuries might have been caused by a fall from an automobile, but apparently they were not serious enough to have caused death. The woman's clothing is of fairly good texture. She wore two rings, apparently diamonds. Her purse contained no money, but in it was found the business card of C. Sandhager and company, distillers, 123 East Court street, Cincinnati.

COLUMBUS—After a perfect record for 12 years of school attendance, never having been tardy or absent a single day, Miss Camille J. Ebert has graduated from the Columbus High school. She took the four years' high school work in three and one-half years, never took an examination during her school career, and will next fall enter Ohio State University to take a course in home economics.

THE VACATION GIRL'S WARDROBE

Suggestions for the Sport Shirt and Skirt—A Word or Two on Sweaters and Shoes—Russian Blouses and Middy's Favored.

NEW YORK, June 13.—For true sport, the vacation girl must dress the part, whether her outing be a tramping tour, a camping trip, a mountain climb, or just the conventional round of tennis, golf, and boating. This annual week or two of freedom, open air and sunshine must carry us through another year, so let us make the most of our outfit.

Sport Shirts and Sport Skirts.
Perhaps the most comfortable general outfit for the girl who likes a long cross-country tramp, is the short skirt of corduroy, with heavy tan boots, not too high, well laced to prevent wetting through, a soft tan flannel shirt, made on the order of a—s, with pockets, and soft roll there is the distinct sports shoe for tennis, or golf, with rubber sole and heel, and the heavy tramping or hunting boot. But there is another shoe, a typical walking shoe, which is beginning to be seen on the street, worn with the smartly tailored suit of serge or linen; this shoe or the has a broad heel, a round toe and a generally sensible, smart appearance. One of the most charming low shoes of the season, worn for the street, with a tailored suit, is of patent leather with heels which resemble closely the old fashioned spring heels of the child's shoe. These are smart, new and comfortable. For those who find the backward tilt of the low heel rather uncomfortable at first, there comes an air cushion or inside heel which may be slipped into the shoe, adding to the comfort and giving the same effect as the outside heel of rubber.

White buckskin and canvas shoes, with leather trimmings, or plain, are popular for general sports wear, with the white or colored linen suit; the plain black or tan walking boot is favored for rough wear. Silk stockings are seldom worn for sports purposes; a good heavy hosiery or cotton is preferable.

CHURCHMEN MEET IN LIMA TOMORROW

Episcopal churchmen and rectors from parishes in Lima district will come to Lima tomorrow for the meeting of the clerics in the afternoon, for rectors, and the dinner, to be extended the Churchmen's club of the district by the Men's club of Christ church, in the parish house. Dr. Arthur M. Griffin, who is dean of Lima district and rector of Christ church, will entertain the visiting rectors at luncheon at the parish house.

Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock and will be in charge of the women of the church. The Rt. Rev. Frank B. DuMoulin, of Toledo, bishop-conductor of the Northern Ohio diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, will be the chief speaker.

BUILDING AND LOAN OFFICERS ORGANIZE

Ralph P. Mackenzie had as his guests at luncheon today the Elks' club the secretaries and solicitors of the five building and loan associations of Lima. After luncheon, an informal organization was formed of all the secretaries and solicitors and it is planned to have meetings every few months to take up some of the mutual difficulties and questions and to exchange ideas. John W. Roby was elected president of the new organization and Ralph Mackenzie, secretary.

Those present were W. L. Rogers and C. A. Graham of the Central Building and Loan association; John W. Roby and C. E. Lynch of the Allen County Savings and Loan association; R. C. Eastman and L. A. Feltz of the Citizens' Loan and Building Company; C. F. Sprague of the Lima Home and Savings association; James W. Gensel and Ralph P. Mackenzie of the South Side Building and Loan association.

the nation, of the several states and all others in authority to use their utmost endeavors to promote the national well-being by putting into force and effect all reasonable measures of national preparedness through the military and naval forces of the country and through its diversified industries; and be it further

"Resolved, that we pledge ourselves to work unceasingly for every reasonable measure tending toward adequate national preparedness as hereinbefore defined, and be it further

"Resolved, that as, in time of war, the nation enforces compulsory military service on the part of all its male citizens of adequate physical fitness, preparation should be made to make such compulsory universal military service effective to the highest degree by requiring in time of peace, compulsory universal military training.

"Respectfully submitted by the committee,

"PAUL MASON, Chairman,
"P. W. MORTON."

The opening session of the Ohio Firemen's Protective association was called to order this morning at 10 o'clock by President A. E. Curtis, of Lima. The following officers were present: W. W. McFadden, vice president; W. T. Roberts, second vice president; Harry Taffinger, secretary and treasurer; John Lewis, third vice president, and Joseph Kirby, corresponding secretary. Trustees present were: Homer Thomas, Nicholas Wagner, Fred Hughes, James Hames and Thomas McCue.

Both of the organizations in their session urged an early consolidation of the Volunteer Firemen and Ohio Firemen's Protective associations under the Ohio Firemen's association. It is the belief of members of different organizations that much more can be accomplished for the benefit of firemen over the State by one strong organization under one set of officers, than through a number of smaller and separate associations. A vote of thanks was passed to Senator Pomerehne and Congressman Robert Crosser for their interest in the Columbia pension measure.

Members of both of the organizations placed themselves in the hands of the entertainment committee this afternoon. The schedule called for an automobile ride through the city, after which they attended the meeting of the Lima Matinee club at Lima Driving park, where they were special guests of the directors of the club. In the evening R. L. Hammel and H. H. Ford, both of Columbus, will address the gathering on "State Wide Civil Service." After several discussions, D. K. Moser, of the Warren fire department, spoke on "Firemen's Pensions." After the report of committees and the selection of the next meeting place in 1917, both of the organizations will adjourn for the day.

The third organization will open its session tomorrow when members of the Lake Erie Volunteer Firemen's association arrive in the city. From indications and predictions this body will be the largest to convene in Lima for a number of years. Through the entire day all sessions of the organization will be held at Memorial hall. Tests of fire fighting apparatus will be displayed tomorrow morning and field exercises will be indulged in by members wishing to participate. In the afternoon after the address of welcome to the volunteer firemen by Mayor R. H. Simpson, at the Memorial hall a number of state celebrities will speak.

The big event of the day which is to be the parade has been arranged for 7 o'clock p. m. This will be followed by a band concert and open air ball on North West street between High and Market streets. The parade is to be composed of five divisions. They are as follows: First, police, band, Company C, Moose, prominent visitors, city officials and executive committee; second division: band, visiting volunteers, local volunteers, Locomotive, Co. W. & D. Garford and Gramm-Bernstein volunteer fire fighters; third division: band, visiting chiefs and Ohio Firemen's Protective association; fourth division: display fire apparatus, and local fire department; fifth division: merchants' industrial display and decorated autos.

The divisions will form at the following points: First, on the right side of West Wayne street with head resting on Main; second, on the east side of West street, with head resting on Wayne; third, on the west side of West street, with the head resting on Wayne street; fourth, on the east side of Elizabeth street, with the head resting on Wayne street; and fifth, on the west side of Elizabeth street, with the head resting on Wayne street.

THE GIRL

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

"I don't see how on earth you can wedge another one in here. We're packed like sardines now."

Claire gave her skirts a little shake to fill in every last available inch of space on the back seat of the coach.

"Oh, nonsense," laughed Lewis.

"Here, Miss Rickard, just swing up beside me. There's room for you between Ben and me."

Old Ben made room for her gracefully, and picked up his reins, whip in one hand, waiting the starter's signal in front of the Mountain View hotel. "Gwen was to sit there, Lewis," complained Claire anxiously.

"Gwen wants to ride inside," replied Lewis quietly. "Everybody ready? We're off!"

"Do you know her—Miss Rickard?" asked the girl next to Claire.

"I know she's perfectly impossible," returned Claire. "Wonder what Gwen thinks? She's been dropping poor old Lewis over the edge of emotional chasms for days, and it serves her right. They're just as good as engaged, and she's been absolutely hypnotized by Wayne Iverson."

Inside the coach Gwen Arnold sat with Iverson. For five weeks he had been a guest at the hotel, a slender, scholarly looking youngster who spent most of his time reading on the broad porch or riding the mountain paths. "It is wonderful to have you all to myself," Iverson said as the coach swung down into the first gully.

"You call this alone?" laughed Gwen teasingly, wondering who the girl was up on the box.

"Who is she?" asked Iverson, almost as if he had caught her thought. She was not a guest at the hotel, and seemed more like a mountain type.

"Lewis knows her. Odd, isn't it?"

"Lewis has lived up here for three years," she answered, resentfully.

"Ever heard this trip was dangerous?" piped up an old gentleman.

"Used to be ten years ago. Almost sure to find a bandit."

"Really?" Gwen leaned forward eagerly.

"I haven't carried a gun in years," went on the old gentleman cheerfully, "but I've got one along today. That boy on the box is carrying money over to the Cuddyhoe outfit to pay off the men their quarterly wages. Got it from the express office. And it's some risk to get it through even today."

"Who has it—the driver or—Mr. Stevens?" asked Gwen.

"Stevens. He's a friend of the superintendent down here and the foreman over there. Haven't got any valuables along, have you?"

Wayne laughed and took out his watch and purse.

"Shall we take an inventory to help along the highwayman when we meet him?" he asked. "Let us give everything to Miss Crandall, and no one would ever be brave enough to hold her up."

Up on the box, Lewis and his two companions watched the gulch as it tipped and widened, narrowed up again and plunged ahead, a gash in the heart of the mountain. When the coach swung down into the Devil's Kettle, it seemed to rock alarmingly, and stopped with a jerk that sent the horses almost on their haunches.

Inside the coach, the people started to rise, but found themselves neatly covered by a revolver held by Wayne Iverson. His face, usually rather pale, was flushed and his eyes were keen.

"Stay where you are, all of you," he commanded. "Miss Crandall, may I trouble you for the handbag, please?"

Everything of value had been obligingly slipped into Gwen's brown seal handbag, and also fastened, her eyes flashing into his. Outside, an older man on horseback stood with leveled rifle by the coach.

"Hands up, all of you," he called. "Come on, kid. It's all right."

And Wayne slipped down from the coach, but stopped, for the old gentleman held a revolver at his head.

"Got you this trip," he said pleasantly. "Sit still, ladies. All right, Lewis!"

LEWIS suddenly felt the touch of steel to his head. Old Ben had somehow crumpled down at the bandit's first warning shot, but the girl was in his place, holding the reins. At the voice from the rear of the coach, the man on horseback wheeled his horse and started on a headlong gallop down the gulch road, but Lewis fired after him, bringing the horse to his knees, and he lay motionless with his rider under him.

It had all happened so suddenly that the girls and women had watched the scene in silent horror. Claire was first to note the surprising change in the girl on the box. Her hat was off. She was short-haired and boyish, and was on the ground laughing and talking while Wayne was bound hand and foot.

Gwen waited, white faced and troubled. Finally Lewis came to her side and she laid her hand impulsively on his coat sleeve—such a little motion, but it betrayed to him all of her thoughts. He laid one hand over it closely.

"Well, girls, I'm sorry you ran into this. We've been expecting it for months. We came prepared. There were two of the sheriff's men with me, Baker on the inside, as the old man, and young Carter outside with me, dressed as the girl. Were you jealous, dear?"

TO FIGHT PINE BLISTER.

COLUMBUS, O., June 14.—Reports that traces of white pine blister rust had been discovered in plant shipments into Ohio induced N. E. Shaw, state nursery and orchard inspector to order his inspectors into eastern and western sections of the state to make a survey of the situation. The state inspectors will work with federal agents.

The white pine blister rust is a deadly plant disease, which affects principally five-leaf white pine trees. The disease germinates on gooseberry and currant bushes without injuring them and then is transplanted to the pines.

AMERICANISM AND PEACE ADVOCATED BY GLYNN IN KEYNOTE AT CONVENTION

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—With the assertion that no president since the Civil war has had as crucial problems to solve; and no president has displayed a grasp more sure, a statesmanship more profound, as President Wilson, Hon. Martin H. Glynn, former governor of New York, opened the democratic national convention here today. Declaring that "Americanism and peace, preparedness and prosperity—are the issues upon which the democratic party stands, and the heart of democracy swells with pride that is more than a pride of party, as it hails the man, who has asserted this Americanism, assured this peace, advocated this preparedness and produced this prosperity," he predicted the re-election of President Wilson.

Taking up our foreign relations that has been called into emphatic prominence by the world-wide war the speaker declared that "We have entered this hall as democrats; we shall deliberate as Americans." "The policy of neutrality, he argued, is as truly American as the American flag. For two hundred years neutrality was a theory; America made it a fact. "It took Washington and his successors eighty years of endless negotiation to win recognition of American neutrality. And this eighty years of struggle wove the doctrine of neutrality so closely into the warp and woof of our national life that to tear it out now would unravel the very threads of our existence." By the records of history Mr. Glynn maintained that if Washington and Lincoln were right, President Wilson is right. The neutrality that President Wilson stands for today was advocated by Washington, by Hamilton, by Jefferson and by Lincoln.

By citing precedents Mr. Glynn justified and defended the course of the president in the Lusitania and similar incidents. "In the face of this record," he asked, "Do republicans realize that when they arraign the policy of the president of the United States today they arraign the policy of Harrison, of Blaine, of Lincoln and of Grant? For the pleasure of criticizing a democratic president, are they willing to read out of the republican party the greatest men the republican party ever had? Are they willing to say that the republican party of today condemns what Hamilton did in revolutionary days, what Lincoln did in Civil war days and what Grant and Blaine and Harrison did yesterday?"

"In his policy of peaceful negotiations today the president of the United States follows the example set him by the greatest presidents which the democratic party and the greatest presidents the republican party ever gave this nation."

No Room for Doubt.
Mr. Glynn impressed on his hearers that it was the business of this convention "representing every section of the United States, speaking for every racial strain in America, to send forth a message to all the world that will leave room for doubt."

"We must enable every real American to stand up and assert his Americanism. We must make the issue so clear that every ballot box in the land may become a monument to the loyalty of American manhood."

"The citizens of this country must stand behind their president because his policies are right. They will stand behind him because his policies are the policies which have brought the nation a century of prosperous and honored peace. They will stand behind him because they want these policies continued, that prosperity prolonged, that peace assured."

He pointed out that the promise made four years ago that a democratic administration would liberate the nation from the chains of industrial tyranny has been carried out. He eulogized the federal reserve act and declared that the "Scholar-statesman, whose rod has struck the golden rock of America's resources, to set free the wealth imprisoned for half a century, is a Moses who has led America's industries from the wilderness of doubt and despair to the Promised Land of Prosperity and hope."

The laws restraining big business from stifling competition, the trades commission act, the movement to foster expansion of American trade, the close union of economic, commercial and financial interests between the United States and the nations of South America are shown to be legislation of the widest benefit. The Underwood tariff, Mr. Glynn characterized as the fairest and the best of all we have enacted. Under the present administration the United States has enjoyed a wonderful era of good business and good times.

The American's ideals and his aspirations served as the basis for the speaker's opening discussion.

In asking for an endorsement of the president's peace policy Mr. Glynn said:
"For two years the world has been afloat; the civilization that we know has been torn by the mightiest struggle in its history. Sparks from Europe's conflagration have blazed in our own skies, echoes of her strife have sounded at our very doors. That fire still burns, that struggle still continues, but thus far the United States has held the flame at bay; thus far it has saved its people from participation in the conflict."

"What the people of the United States must determine through their suffrage, is whether the course the country has pursued through this crucial period is to be continued; whether the principles that have been asserted as our national policy shall be endorsed or withdrawn."

"This is the paramount issue. No lesser issue must cloud it, no unrelated problems must confuse it."

Neutrality Issue.

The issue raised by democracy's opponents of the vigor with which our neutrality has been enforced is dealt with by the records of history: "When Grant was president, during the war between Spain and the Spanish West Indies, a Spanish gunboat seized the vessel 'Virginian' flying the American flag and a Spanish commandant in cold blood shot the captain of the 'Virginian', thirty-six of the crew and sixteen of the passengers."

"But we didn't go to war. Grant settled our troubles by negotiations just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Harrison was president the people of Chile conceived a violent dislike to the United States for our insistence upon neutrality during the Chilean revolution. When this feeling was at its height one junior officer from the United States warship Baltimore was killed outright in the streets of Valparaiso and sixteen of our sailors wounded, of whom one afterwards died."

"But we didn't go to war. Harrison settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Lincoln was president: this country's rights were violated on every side. England, Russia, France and Spain were guilty of such flagrant violations that Secretary of State Seward advanced a plan to go to war with all of them at one and the same time."

"But we didn't go to war. Lincoln settled our troubles by a coalition just as the president is trying to do today."

"When Washington was president and 'neutrality' first declared, war convulsed Europe, our ships dared not to put out to sea, commerce was paralyzed and business depressed. American passengers and American crews were thrown into prison and deprived of legal rights."

"But we didn't go to war. Washington settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

In concluding this issue, Mr. Glynn asked:
"Do the critics of the present administration believe that Lincoln should have risked national disaster by using the sword rather than the pen in pressing the Alabama claim? Are they willing to brand Grant as a coward because he kept us at peace with Spain?"

In answer to those who say that President Wilson's policy does not satisfy anyone, Mr. Glynn replied: "He means that it does not satisfy those who would map out a new and untried course for this nation to pursue, but they forget it does satisfy those who believe the United States should live up to the principles it has professed for a century, and more."

In his review of our domestic policy the temporary chairman pointed out that the promise made by democracy four years ago had been faithfully kept.

"Today the prosperity which the nation enjoys bears witness that democracy has kept the faith. Today the gates of opportunity are open; the hosts of special privilege stand disarmed. Today the forces of government are encouraging, not blocking the full expression of the nation's progress. Today the business man, the artisan and farmer find themselves free to enjoy the fruits of their labor, unhampered by the sinister power of special privilege or the selfish oppression of 'invisible government'."

Of the federal reserve act Mr. Glynn had this to say:
"In the panic of 1907, under the old system, New York could not lend a country bank $50,000 with which to meet factory payrolls; in 1915 New York loaned Europe five hundred millions even though the financial centers of the world were disrupted by the world war, and there were still left in New York the largest bank deposits in its history."

"If this democratic administration had performed no other public service than the enactment of the federal reserve act, it would deserve the unstinted approval of a grateful nation. Thanks to democracy and to democracy's great leader, the business man who is struggling to establish himself may now work out his destiny without living in terror of panics and hard times. The toiler in the factory may ply his tasks in security, knowing that his employer's business is safe from assault. The farmer who must borrow to move his crops may do so without spending his days in anxiety, his nights in nightmares of foreclosure and disaster."

"The Underwood tariff," declared the speaker, "enacted by this administration has banished greed from the gates of our ports and written justice into our tariff schedules."

"Of all the tariffs we ever enacted this is the fairest and the best."

"Until the foreign war reduced importations no new tariff was ever more satisfactory. The highest protective tariff ever written would probably have given us no more revenue during this European war and a higher tariff on raw materials would have hampered our manufactures; a higher tariff on the necessities of life would have placed a woeful burden on the poor man in the conditions which the war abroad has brought about."

"By the Underwood law this administration has taken the tariff out of politics; by the new tariff commission it proposes to take politics out of the tariff."

Present Prosperity.
In the discussion of prosperity Mr. Glynn made particular reference to our industrial condition.

"Today prosperity shines from blazing furnaces and glowing forges; it echoes from busy docks and from

ROGER C. SULLIVAN

There was no fight in the St. Louis convention like that in Baltimore which gave Woodrow Wilson his first nomination. Charles F. Murphy, boss of the democratic party in New York, and Roger Sullivan, the Illinois boss, then combined with others to defeat Wilson. They are now in St. Louis without power except to register the will of their party. Elliot W. Major of Missouri is that state's offering for the vice-presidential nomination. Homer S. throughed emporiums of trade. Its message of plenty fills the land with the chant of the spindle and of loom, lifting the mortgage from the poor man's home and promising his children a future that seemed impossible before.

"During the past four years this country has experienced a steady and continuous improvement in business. Wealth has increased 31 per cent, the value of manufactured products 39 per cent, capital 43 per cent, wages 54 per cent, and exports 77 per cent. The flood-tide of our prosperity has risen to such an unprecedented height that the only limit to trade is our ability to make and transport the commodities demanded at home and abroad. Our fields and our factories cry aloud for men and unemployment has ceased to be a problem. Wages have advanced, building operations have resumed, real estate has recovered its worth."

"There is not an idle car on our railroads or an idle ship at our docks. For the first time in history America's greatest port has become the world's greatest port."

"Against this actual condition our opponents raise an argument of 'ifs'. With greater truth we can also enter the realm of conjecture and declare that if another candidate had been elected four years ago, the United States would be at war today. A ton of 'ifs' do not weigh as much as a single fact. Our opponents forget that 'if' the flight of the seagulls off the coast of the West Indies had not directed his course, Columbus would not have discovered America where he did. But the seagulls were there—'ifs' cannot banish them—and Columbus found our land."

Wisdom of Wilson.
Chairman Glynn concluded with praise for President Wilson, who, he said, has measured up to the best traditions of a great office.

"He has been wise with a wisdom that is steeped in the traditions of his country, with a wisdom that has been disciplined by training and broadened by instruction."

"He has been firm with the firmness that proceeds from deep conviction, with the firmness that is grounded in a duty well defined."

"He has been patient with the patience which believes and trusts that truth crushed to earth will rise again, with the patience that can endure and wait, watch and pray, for the certain vindication of justice, humanity and right."

"He has been patriotic with a patriotism that has never wavered, a patriotism that is as pure and strong as the faith that moved the fathers when they made our country free."

"And when the history of these days comes to be written, and the children of tomorrow read their nation's story, when time shall have dispelled all misconception and the years shall have rendered their impartial verdict one name will shine in golden splendor upon the page that is blackened with the tale of Europe's war, one name will represent the triumph of American principles over the hosts of darkness and of death."

"That name will be the name of the great president who has made democracy proud that he is a democrat, and made Americans proud that he is an American."

"It will be the name of the statesman who has kept his country true to its faith in a time that tried men's souls; the name of the student and the scholar who has championed the cause of American freedom wherever he found it oppressed; the name of the patriot who has implanted his country's flag on the highest peak to which humanity has yet aspired; the name that carried the torch of progress to victory once and will carry it to victory again, the name of Woodrow Wilson, president and president to be."

TRAVELETTE BY NIKSAH

ARCHANGEL.

The Arctic port of Archangel has acquired a new importance since the present war began. It is the center of mysterious troop movements, thought to be to the point of embarkation of the Russian columns that appeared so mysteriously in France. It is one of the northernmost ports of any importance in the world, ice-bound during many months of the year. In winter, Archangel is almost cut off from the world, for few people take the long inland journey and the Arctic ocean is impassable.

The calendar takes care that Archangel shall get through its annual period of isolation as easily as possible. There is very little daylight through the cold months. Most of the local industries slow down or come to a full stop. The nights grow longer and longer, until the longest of them are more than twenty-one hours long. Numbers of the people leave for the south, so that Archangel seems to hibernate through the cold months, like some northern bear awaiting the spring.

The other half of the year is lively enough to make up for the winter. Nature pays up the debt of daylight that she owes by cutting the nights shorter. In midsummer, night is only three hours long, and it never grows entirely dark. The city comes out of its sleep, business and social life goes on with a rush. There are two ways of getting to Archangel—by ship around the northern coast of Scandinavia, and thence eastward and southward into the great gulf where the Dvina empties and the city stands for up from the south by rail and river. Most of the visitors take the latter route.

The railroad for some inscrutable reason stops short of the ferry that crosses the Dvina, so that you meet the tourists of many nations grumbling at Russian methods as they plod along, or bump in the queerly built Russian carriages.

The city itself is Russian to the core. The seven-mile long street connecting it with its principal suburb provincial Russia in miniature. The influences of southern Europe that have modified the Russian of the south do not reach to Archangel. Here you see the Russians as he is, with all his short-comings and all his possibilities, the child among European races.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE

The Western Ohio Railway will on June 16th, 1916, make change in the time of the Lima-Cleveland Limited which has been leaving Lima at 2:15 P. M. and arriving at Cleveland at 7:50 P. M.

The car will then leave Lima at 1:20 P. M., and will make the run to Cleveland in five hours, arriving there at 6:20 P. M. which will now assure connection with the Cleveland and Buffalo Road Line for Buffalo which leaves Cleveland at 8:00 P. M. each night.

This change shortens the running time 35 minutes, and is the only through route to Cleveland from Lima without change of cars.

The morning car to Cleveland will run on the same schedule leaving Lima at 6:00 A. M. and arriving at Cleveland at 11:50 A. M.

Remember the change of time leaving at 1:20 P. M. instead of 2:15 P. M.

Cincinnati and Boston Tied In Sixteen Innings

BOSTON, Mass., June 14.—After a suction pump had been used to aid in draining the diamond, following a heavy downpour of rain yesterday, Cincinnati and Boston played for 16 innings, neither team being able to score, and darkness finally necessitated calling the game. Toney and Schneider held the Braves to three hits. Cincinnati's hits were numerous, but they were well scattered and the Braves were strong defensively.

With three on bases and two out in the twelfth, Clarke batting for Toney, drove a terrific liner which Rudolph caught with his bare hand and retired the batter. The Braves made a desperate effort in their half of the same inning. With Fitzpatrick on second, Compton hit in front of the plate, and Fitzpatrick tied to come all the way home while Wingo was throwing out the batter. Mollwitz returned the throw to Groh for a double play at the plate. Score.

Fourth Straight

CLEVELAND, O. June 14.—Cleveland made it four straight from Philadelphia, knocking Myers from the box again and winning, 11 to 2.

Bagby was very effective after the first inning. Turner's triple with the bases filled in the third, was a feature. Chapman, of Cleveland, to short for the time since April 26, played brilliantly. In the series of four games Cleveland scored 31 runs

MARKETS

WALL ST. MARKET
RULES IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, June 14.—Willys-Overland made a further decline of two points before it rallied to 282 and other issues of the same class improved. The balance of the active list, except Mexicans, which continued heavy, hardened under a demand for Reading and Steel. Inspiration led the coppers on rumors of an approaching dividend declaration. Beet Sugar continued to climb, touching 92½. Rails as a whole were far less prominent than yesterday, and trading slackened visibly before midday. Bonds were steady.

The noteworthy feature of today's early trading was the overnight decline of 26 points in Willys-Overland to 279, due to reports of a hitch in the consolidation of which that company was to form one of the chief constituents. Other motor issues were heavy in sympathy. Elsewhere changes inclined to moderate irregularity with a fair percentage of advances over losses. General Electric rose a point, with a similar gain for Beet Sugar, which established the new record of 90½. New York, Chicago and St. Louis (Nickel Plate) featured the rails advancing 1½ and coppers also were strong.

WHEAT MARKET IS HEAVY AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 14.—Heaviness developed in the wheat market today owing to the fact that Liverpool quotations were unresponsive to yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic.
The opening, which ranged from 3-8@1-2c lower to a shade advance, with July $1.04 1-4 to 3-8 and September at $1.05 5-8 to $1.06 1-8, was followed by slight net gains, but then a general advance.
Unfavorable weather and improved cash demand gave some firmness to crops. After opening 1-8@1-4 to 3-8 higher, prices receded to slightly under yesterday's finish.

Oats were upheld by a fair demand from commission houses, and cash interests. Selling pressure was light.
Provisions were but little affected by an advance in the hog market. Buying orders seemed scarce.

The wheat close was unsettled at 1½ to 1¾¢ net higher, with July at $1.02½¢ and September at $1.04½¢.
The corn close was firm at a gain of a shade to ½¢ net.
The close was wheat, July $1.02½¢; September $1.04½¢.
Corn, July 71½¢; September 70½¢.
Oats, July 39½¢; September 38½¢.

BILL'S MOTHER
By ALICIA RANN.

"The worst of it is—the secret that I have dreaded so to tell you—the secret is that I am not Margaret Barchester. I am just Orphan Maggie."

The girl sat very erect among the cushions of the window seat in the sun-parlor of Eagle's Nest, the newly-built abode of Mr. Barchester, head of the gigantic business corporation of which Bill Fogue was proud to be considered one of the promising younger members.

"That's why I didn't want to say that I would marry you; because you couldn't marry me, of course, when you knew that I was just an orphan. The Barchesters adopted me."

"Bill, please don't hate me for being ashamed of it, for it wasn't quite that. But Mr. and Mrs. Barchester have been so good to me, and they made me promise never to tell anyone that I was not their truly really daughter. When you began to come to see me and when you told me that you wanted me to marry you I knew that Daddy Barchester wanted me to like you. For he is very proud of you, Bill, and always calls you his boy."

"Oh, I have tried so hard to tell you, Bill, but I just couldn't. Bill, your mother would hate me if she thought I had made you her daughter."

For the first time, Margaret paused in her talk, but Bill forgot all the comforting and reassuring things he had intended to say.

She held out two imploring hands and, now that her little speech was over, her eyes were filled with the tears that she had been keeping back so bravely.

But Bill did not yield to the temptation to comfort her.

"I'm glad you have told me, Margaret. Of course, it was the only thing to do," he said, still avoiding her entreating eyes. "I'm glad, too, to hear your reason for not giving me your answer." He paused again as if thinking deeply and then turned and faced the girl, watch in hand. His voice was entirely changed when he said, "Well, let's start now for that long-promised visit to my old home. It's in the other end of town."

Once or twice as Bill's car bore him swiftly onward, Margaret tried to get back to the question uppermost in her mind. Why didn't he tell her that the fact of her humble origin made no difference to him?

They moved less rapidly through the outskirts of the city, dropped down through the crowded streets and on beyond to the older section, where sagging pavements and tilt-ramp green lawns proclaimed the neighborhood to have outlived a once-fashionable era.

At one such corner Bill signaled for the car to stop.

"We'll get out here and walk to the house," he said.

"Perhaps," she thought, "the street where Bill's mother lives is being repaved."

But in a minute more she found this conjecture to be wrong. It was an unusually large and imposing mansion, out of date and in not too good repair, to which Bill turned their steps.

"What a perfectly lovely old home," she said as they neared the massive black walnut entrance door. Secretly she felt disappointed. If Bill had led her to some simple little cottage or even up flights of stairs to a humble flat she would have felt that the little Maggie she had confessed herself to be would find a warmer welcome.

"It is a fine old home, isn't it?" answered Bill, with evident satisfaction. "And some twenty-five years ago it was the scene of great festivities. Pretty good times still go on within its walls."

Just then a stout, middle-aged woman came to the door.

"The mother, please," said Tom, and straight to her study."

He turned to the little room on the right of the imposing though meagerly furnished hall and entered, unannounced, what was apparently his mother's study. Margaret first caught the brilliance of the stand of red geraniums that stood in the sunlight of the window to the south, then the impression of immaculate cleanliness and then the little mother came toward them from her low rocking chair with two outstretched hands. Margaret took one and Bill the other.

"So you have brought her!" smiled the mother, with a tone that gave Margaret all the reassurance she had longed for. And then she found herself seated cozily in a low rush-bottom chair at the mother's side and Bill in another.

"It is a wonderful thing to me," the mother was saying in her kind voice, "that not one boy who has left us and made good has been ashamed when the time came, to bring the girl he has chosen for his wife back to the old home. And not one has been ashamed to introduce me as his mother."

The old lady paused and laughed and then wiped a tear from her kindly eyes. "And some twenty of them have made good and married. But Bill was always my boy especially. How well do I remember the day I started him off on his first day's work at Barchester's. He was such a shy, comical, lovable little chap in those days."

Margaret looked at the man she loved in open-eyed amazement.

"Orphan Maggie and Orphan Bill," he said, rather sheepishly.

OFFERS TO TRADE.
Four-year-old son was told to undress and go to bed without any toys, for he had been disobedient. His mother concluded, "It hurts me just as badly as it does you when I have to punish you." So quickly replied: "All right, mamma, let's trade places." —Exchange.

Hard on the Baby.

Shaping an Ideal.
"The ideal is in itself; the impediment, too, is in itself. Thy condition is, and stay thou art to shape that same ideal out of. What matters it whether such stuff be of that sort or that, so the form thou give be heroic." —Carlyle.

Loss to Agriculture.
It is estimated that the annual loss to agriculture in this country from the depredations of insects and rodents alone is $10,000,000,000—about $1 a month for every man, woman and child in the United States.

One on Pa.
My wife asked me if a young man we knew was still keeping company with a young lady we knew also. I said: "I guess the only way he will ever get her to stick to him is to use a typewriter." My little boy said: "Is that how you got mamma?" —Exchange.

WHY ENDURE SUMMER COLIC?

It isn't necessary to have a stuffed head, running nose. To cough your head off as it were. All you need to do is to use Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. The soothing and healing balsams open the clogged air passages and in a short time you get relief and start on the road to recovery. Your nose stops running, you cough less and you know you are getting better. Get a bottle, use as directed. Keep what is left as a cough and cold insurance.

COLUMBUS—"Ohio state penitentiary prisoners recently played base ball for charity and we preachers can not let them outdo us," declared Rev. C. W. Graham in announcing he would manage a team of Columbus Methodist ministers who will Thursday play a game of ball with a team composed of local Presbyterian ministers. The proceeds of the game will be donated to a fund being raised for the building of a children's hospital.

A Prominent Manager Says:

The manager of one of Lima's most prosperous businesses recently made the following remarks about the use of the telephone:

"About a year ago, when I thought I was the busiest man in America, I took a little inventory of myself. I found that I was spending most of my time uselessly.

"By that I mean that most of the calls that I made were without profit to me or the man I was calling on.

"So I duplicated the exploit of Mr. Bell. I discovered the telephone.

"I found that most of the things that had been taking up my time, could be done in a fraction of the time over the phone.

"So now I make it a rule never to call on a man until I have talked to him over the phone. If he is not interested enough to give me an interview, it is a cinch that he will not be interested in my proposition. And if he is going to be out, I know it in advance.

I tell all my salesmen the same thing. I get in touch with them every evening by long distance, and I keep telling them never to walk if they can use the phone instead.

"I had an extension phone connected to my desk, and now when people come in they generally see me with the receiver in my ear."

Have YOU an extension to your desk?
